Cafe Men Decide To Carry Beer Question To Voters

INITIATIVE PETITIONS CIRCULATED

Action Decided on at Meeting Held Last Night; 2714 Names Are Needed

Petitions Call for Modification of Old Ordinance to Allow 3.2 Beer

CAFE MEN and restaurant owners of this city, meeting last night at Ketter's cafe as an organized body, decided to take the question of "beer or no beer" direct to the voters.

To that end arrangements were completed to circulate initiative petitions, requesting the city council to pass the necessary legislation on its own accord, or to submit the issue direct to the voters.

The decision taken by the restaurant owners to take the beer question direct to the people, it was explained, comes as a result of the attitude adopted by the city fathers who last Monday night declined to discuss the issue and declared the dry laws now in force prohibiting beverages containing more than one-half of one per cent of alcohol were a mandate of the people and would be enforced.

Asks Modification

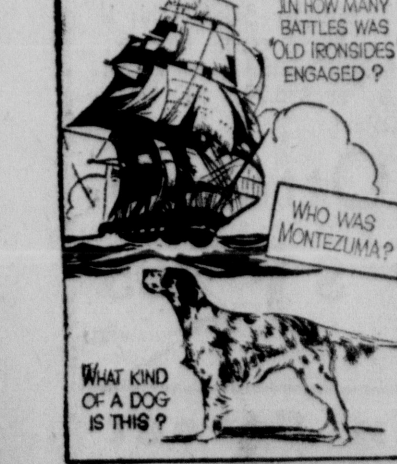

The initiative petitions call for the enactment of an ordinance which would modify city ordinance No. 662, adopted on June 20, 1921, following the passage of the Wright act, so as to permit the sale of 3.2 per cent beer, as provided for in recent legislation passed by congress.

Incidental to the launching of the beer movement was the organization of the cafe men into a body to be known as "The Restaurant Owners Association of Santa Ana," of which Frank Briggs of the California Coffee Shop was elected president. Tony Barrios, proprietor of Tony's cafe was named vice president, and to Mrs. Charles Garden, of the French Dipped Sandwich Shoppe, was given the combined office of secretary-treasurer.

George A. Rayner, secretary of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, in addressing the assembled cafe men, said that he was glad to note that they had reached a decision to organize and that the chamber would be willing to help them in every possible way. He added, however, that it was so long since he had any contact with beer that he was not in position to say whether it was or was not in the public interest.

RETAINS POST

Homer Cummings will remain as attorney general in the cabinet of President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

CUMMINGS TO CONTINUE IN CABINET POST

Will Retain Present Office and Not Be Named Islands Governor

WASHINGTON, March 29.—(UP)—Homer Cummings will remain as attorney general in the cabinet of President Roosevelt and will not go to the Philippines as governor general, it was reported from authoritative sources today.

Cummings, who was named attorney general on the death of Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, originally attorney general designate, had been slated to succeed Theodore Roosevelt in the islands.

It was believed at the time of his appointment to the cabinet that he would remain in this country for about a month only.

The decision to retain him in the department of justice was predicated, it was said, on the belief that his services are needed in carrying out the Roosevelt program.

Who will obtain the Philippines appointment is a question that even close advisers of the president were not prepared to answer. It was believed that consideration would again be given the name of Swager Sherley, former chairman of the house appropriation committee, and now engaged in working out phases of Mr. Roosevelt's government reorganization program. He is a native of Kentucky.

Some friends of the president were of the opinion that Archibald McNeill, Democratic national committeeman from Connecticut, also might be considered when this appointment came up for disposal.

ROOSEVELT SLASHES PAY OF EMPLOYEES

WASHINGTON, March 29.—(UP)—A 15 per cent pay cut for federal officials and employees throughout the country became effective Saturday.

President Roosevelt, using the power granted him by the new economy act, made the reduction by executive order last night.

The pay cut is effective from April 1 to July 1. It is expected to be a radical turn in the cost of living. The reduction is estimated to save the government $30,000,000 for the three months or at the rate of $120,000,000 a year.

BARONESS WANTS DIVORCE

SANTA BARBARA, March 29.—(UP)—Emily Hall von Romberg, daughter of Mrs. William Hall of Seattle and Montecito, who several weeks ago revealed her separation from Baron Maximilian Converse von Romberg, today had a suit for divorce on file in superior court. Mrs. von Romberg accused her young husband of neglect.

NAZI CAMPAIGN AGAINST JEWS GROWS HOURLY

Demonstrations Increase Despite Fact Program Set for Saturday

BERLIN, March 29.—(UP)—Demonstrations against Jewish elements increased today, despite the government's announcement that its program of "retaliation against atrocity lies" would not begin until 10 a.m. Saturday.

In Essen, home of the famous Krupp armament works, proprietors of Jewish department stores closed their establishments hurriedly, on orders of the brown shirts. In Wittenberg and the province of Brandenburg, Hitler storm troops picketed Jewish shops and forced them to close.

Boycotts of many chain stores were effective. All stores owned by Jewish proprietors were closed in Darmstadt. Jews of Gleiwitz voluntarily closed during the morning and found their places of business officially closed by the new dictator's storm troops when they sought to open them in the afternoon.

Differences between the Nazis and the steel helmets in Brunswick appeared to be nearing an amicable agreement. The government lifted its ban against the war veterans organization, effective April 1. The steel helmet organization announced that henceforth no applications from men adhering to socialistic principles would be accepted, and the applications for membership by followers of Karl Marx now pending would be ignored.

Twelve hundred steel helmets arrested at Brunswick have been released, it was announced, but 150 leaders of the organization, including many anti-Hitlerites, remained in custody.

Franz Selts, leader of the steel helmets and minister of labor in the Hitler cabinet, returned to Berlin last night.

HOTEL CLERK SHOT BY TOLEDO GUNMEN

TOLEDO, O., March 29.—(UP)—John J. McLaughlin, hotel night clerk, was shot to death by two gunmen, one of whom he had put out of the hotel Saturday night for disorderliness.

The killers fled in a car after firing several shots at Fred Taylor, bellboy, and a hotel guest, John Gomph.

One of the killers, Taylor said, registered Saturday night under the name of E. J. Egan, Detroit. He was ejected by McLaughlin for drinking in his room.

At 6:00 a. m. today he returned with an armed companion, shot the night clerk between the eyes, fired several ineffective shots in the direction of Taylor and Gomph, and fled in his automobile.

Lives Of Two Are Saved By Police Dog

SAN FRANCISCO, March 29.—(UP)—A police dog, carrying the end of a rope in his mouth, swam to a raft in a Golden Gate park lake and effected the rescue of Chester Tanger and Jack Gorman, each 13, last night.

The boys were helpless to reach shore until the dog swam to them. They tied the rope to the raft and were pulled ashore.

UNIFORM STATE REGULATION OF BEER PROPOSED

Attorney General to Meet With Assembly Committee Next Tuesday

SACRAMENTO, Calif., March 29.—(UP)—Uniform state regulation and taxation of beer in California, superseding local option, was the objective towards which the assembly committee on revenue and taxation was headed today after a hearing last night.

A sub-committee of three was appointed to confer with Attorney General U. S. Webb and, next Tuesday night, present coherent, comprehensive and constitutional bills covering taxation and regulation of 3.2 beer in California.

The attorney general told the committee he was "inclined to believe" cities and counties could not enact taxation and beer regulatory measures in conflict with laws passed by the legislature covering the same subjects.

In other words, Webb explained, it would be possible for the legislature to prevent pyramiding of beer taxes and a hodge podge of regulations throughout the state.

Webb was careful to explain his opinion on this point was not definitive and final. In particular, there might be some doubt in connection with the state's right to supersede chartered cities.

WORLD COURT PLANS ARE GIVEN SETBACK

WASHINGTON, March 29.—(UP)—Administration plans to bring the world court issue before the senate during the special session were defeated temporarily today in an angry secret session of the senate foreign relations committee.

The committee decided to postpone action for one week.

Hints of filibuster were said to have flashed across the committee table as Senate Majority Leader Robinson, administration spokesman, ran head on into the bitter opposition of Senator Johnson, Repn., Calif.

Johnson supported the Democratic ticket against that of his own party in the last national campaign but he has made no trace on the world court issue.

FRANCE ABANDONS BUDGET BALANCING

PARIS, March 29.—(UP)—The French government revealed today that its attempt to balance the 1933 budget has been abandoned. Estimates presented to the chamber of deputies today by Georges Bonnet, minister of finance, and Lucien Lamoureux, director of the budget, showed an expected deficit of 5,213,000,000 francs (approximately $208,520,000) which the government hopes to reduce only by 1,630,000,000 francs (approximately $65,200,000). The reduction will be made through economies expected to save 700,000,000 francs, and the imposition of higher taxes and tariff measures calculated to raise 980,000,000 francs.

BILL PROPOSES STATE BALLOT ON JUNE SIXTH

Bill Approved by Committee Provides for Vote on Repeal and Taxes

SACRAMENTO, Calif., March 29.—(UP)—A special election would be called June 6 for the purpose of voting on repeal of the 18th amendment and major tax changes proposed in constitutional amendments under terms of a bill approved today by the senate governmental efficiency committee.

While the date is subject to change it was agreed by the committee that June 6 represented the most logical date for the election.

In the event the election is called for that time, Senator Arthur H. Breed, president pro tem of the senate, said the legislature probably would adjourn in May and then reconvene immediately after the election to take whatever action is necessitated by the vote of the people.

Pending action in the legislature and subject to amendment, the bill provided that the special election would be called for the purpose of voting on the following:

1—Repeal of the 18th amendment of the Federal Constitution.

2—A constitutional amendment calling for drastic changes in the state tax system as provided by the Riley-Stewart plan of a general gross receipts tax and the return of public utility property back to local tax rolls.

3—A constitutional amendment putting all utility and common property on the same basis and providing for a general ad valorem tax amended so it will not "clash" with the Riley-Stewart plan.

4—A constitutional amendment setting a new minimum and maximum on taxes to be raised for elementary and high school purposes.

5—A bond issue to provide funds for the relief of destitution in California.

AMERICAN EMBASSY IN MEXICO STONED

MEXICO CITY, March 29.—(UP)—An attack by Communists on the American embassy Friday night was revealed today after the demonstrators—disappointed by lack of publicity—wrote to the newspapers about it.

The demonstrators broke five window panes and left scattered on the doorstep, handbills protesting against the appointment of Joseph Daniels as ambassador to Mexico. They fled before an embassy servant reached the door.

The embassy notified the police, but decided not to make the affair public. The "attackers," however, wrote to the newspapers anonymously, and the story was revealed.

Daniels was secretary of the navy when United States Marines landed in Vera Cruz during the Wilson administration.

Barbara was found dying yesterday in the cellar of her tenement home. Two Negroes, brothers, detained for questioning, admitted an assault on another young girl, according to police, and were charged with that crime but absolved of the murder.

County Bill Will Go To Legislature

Santa Ana Declines to Join District Following Council Action

DECISION TO go ahead with the formation of a water district in Orange county under provisions of the new Orange county water bill, leaving out cities in the county that do not wish to be included, was reached at a conference held yesterday afternoon in Anaheim city hall.

E. E. Campbell, president of the Santa Ana Valley Basin Water Rights Protective association, presided at the meeting and excluded a newspaper reporter.

The cities of Santa Ana, Anaheim, Fullerton, Newport Beach, Laguna Beach, the Anaheim Union Water company, the Santa Ana Valley Irrigation company and the protective association were well represented at the meeting.

A. W. Rutan, called the "father" of the water bill, who is employed by the protective association, informed the gathering that the basin protective association had decided, because of the time element, to present the measure to the state legislature early next week.

In the meantime, it was said, any cities in the county which desire to be included in the district can resume negotiations. Letters were sent out to the cities today by R. D. Flaherty, secretary of the Orange County Farm Bureau, asking the cities to set forth in writing their objections to the bill as well as recommended changes.

Rutan declared there would be no attempt to force the cities to become part of the district but that in the meantime, negotiations would be continued with the cities which have objected to details of the bill.

As the bill will be presented to the state legislature, it will include

ILLINOIS MINE WAR BREAKS OUT ANEW

ZEGLER, Ill., March 29.—(UP)—A machine gun was mounted at the city hall here today and special police enforced virtual martial law as new violence threatened in the Illinois mine war.

Police were ordered to question all persons whose actions appeared suspicious. Crowds were not permitted to gather and firearms were ordered confiscated.

CHINESE MURDER IS PUZZLE TO POLICE

LOS ANGELES, March 29.—(UP)—Police were ready today to push their investigation of the "jig saw puzzle" killing of Ung Yock Ming, 33-year-old Chinese film player, despite oriental omens of bad luck which have woven their way into the case.

Last night a dead peacock, considered one of the omen's most potent signs of misfortune entered the investigation. The peacock was killed by dogs at the home of Windsor Llewellyn, employer of Robert Chong, 31, who was held for questioning.

Chong was found near the scene of the killing by police with a revolver which had five empty, warm shells. Chong claimed the gun was thrust into his hand by a fleeing gunman.

Drastic Proposal Presented to Representatives at Ickes Conference

BULLETIN WASHINGTON, March 29.—(UP)—State representatives and oil industry leaders meeting with Secretary of Interior Ickes virtually gave final approval today to a drastic proposal for federal aid to stabilize and rehabilitate the industry.

The plan was adopted by a committee of 15 representing producing states and the industry after a seven-hour conference yesterday.

It was agreed upon by men who canvassed the entire oil problem and decided that production could not be limited effectively merely by cooperation between states and oil company executives.

Ickes believed the program's most important suggestion was

Sends Message to Congress Asking Control of New Issues of Stocks, Bonds

FEDERAL SUPERVISION

Outlines Policy for Full Publicity Regarding Promotion of Securities

WASHINGTON, March 29.—(UP)—President Roosevelt placed before congress today a program for control of new issues of stocks and bonds as a safeguard for the investing public.

The president in a special message recommended federal supervision of interstate traffic in securities and said:

"In spite of the many state statutes the public in the past has sustained severe losses through practices neither ethical nor honest on the part of many persons and corporations selling securities."

Mr. Roosevelt said that the present program is "but one step in our broad purpose of protecting investors and depositors."

"It should be followed," he said, "by legislation relating to the better supervision of the purchase and sale of all property dealt in on exchanges, and by legislation to correct unethical and unsafe practices on the part of officers and directors of banks and other corporations."

"What we seek," he continued in his 300-word message, "is a return to a clearer understanding of the ancient truth that those who manage banks, corporations and other agencies handling or using other people's money are trustees acting for others."

The president outlined a new policy for full publicity regarding all issues of new securities, with criminal penalty for violators who attempt to mislead the public by misleading claims for their shares.

The Roosevelt program was designed to restore public confidence in the sale of securities by giving an impetus to honest dealing and putting responsibility squarely upon the seller.

A bill to provide the legislation recommended by Mr. Roosevelt accompanied the message.

Mr. Roosevelt made it clear that the federal government "cannot and should not take any action which might be construed as approving or guaranteeing that newly issued securities are sound in the sense that their value will be maintained or that the properties which they represent will earn profit."

"There is, however," he continued, "an obligation upon us to insist that every issue of new securities to be sold in interstate commerce shall be accompanied by full publicity and information, and that no essentially important element attending the issue shall be concealed from the buying public."

It was the seventh message Mr. Roosevelt has sent to the special session of congress since it convened three weeks ago. Already

PROCEDURE FOR OBTAINING AID GETS REPORTS IS DETERMINED ON ACTIVITIES

Members of the advisory committee of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation on earthquake relief, recently appointed from Washington, were in Santa Ana today looking over the damaged area and the progress that has been made in reconstruction work.

The committee, of which H. S. Mackay, Los Angeles is chairman, and J. F. Burke, of Santa Ana, a member, arrived here shortly before noon, had lunch with the city council and were inspecting the city this afternoon. They came here from Long Beach, having viewed the situation there.

The committee held its first meeting in Los Angeles yesterday at which time it decided on the formation of a district with members of the unified committee, selected several days ago in Los Angeles, to act as directors. Mayor Paul Witmer and W. D. Ranney of Santa Ana are members of the unified committee and will become directors of the district. Offices will be opened here and applications for loans will be made to these offices by members of the city clerk and the auditor here which have handled the affairs for the past several days, it is understood.

After the applications are made, appraisals will be made by R. F. C. experts and these turned over to the advisory committee as a whole. Recommendations will then be made by the advisory board to Washington.

Communities in the earthquake affected area which have profited by their experiences by strengthening their building codes, such as Santa Ana has done, will be given preference in the granting of R. F. C. funds for repair and reconstruction. It was agreed by the advisory board yesterday, when it passed the following resolution:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this committee that in making loans this committee will necessarily be compelled to look more favorably on loan requests from communities in the affected area which have profited from the recent experience by strengthening their building codes to have them conform with structural recommendations of recognized authorities."

Supervisors Not Considering Tax Holiday Matter

Rumors that requests have been made or are to be made to the board of supervisors for extension of the time to pay delinquent and last half taxes this year are still just rumors, according to Willard Smith, chairman of the board of supervisors.

Smith said this morning that while he has heard suggestions that the supervisors extend the time for tax payments but so far no request has been made of the board either verbally or in writing.

The matter of extending time for tax payments however, Smith said, is not one for the board to decide. Tax payment dates are set by the state legislature and any changes in dates would have to come through action of that body.

L. A. TO CARRY ON FIGHT FOR GAS TAX

The Los Angeles city council yesterday adopted a resolution calling on members of the Los Angeles delegation at Sacramento to renew their fight for the one-half cent gasoline tax allotment for cities.

The original bill called for one-half cent to the cities but this was changed in committee to one-quarter cent. Los Angeles as well as Santa Ana and other cities throughout the state would not be satisfied with the one-quarter cent program and urged its representatives to make a fight for the larger amount.

SANTA ANA SCHOOLS TO CLOSE JUNE 16

Santa Ana school children will not be penalized for the week of enforced vacation while damaged schools were being repaired. This was decided last night by the Santa Ana board of education when members of that body voted to close schools this year on June 16, as originally planned. Previously it had been announced by Superintendent Frank Henderson that the term would be extended one week until June 23.

Decision to close the schools June 16 was made in the face of opposition of W. M. Burke who wanted them kept open for an additional week evening up the time they were kept closed. He said that he thought the schools should run the full term and that the children should be given the advantage of the instruction they would have received had the quake not made it necessary to add one week to the regular spring vacation.

MAY USE UNEMPLOYED FUNDS FOR MATERIALS TO RELEASE R. F. C. FUNDS FOR LABOR HERE

Santa Ana's city council is still undecided about the program of work it needs to adopt so that the $12,000 of state R. F. C. funds, expected here the first of the month can be used.

The council met again last night and numerous projects were outlined and discussed, but no definite program was adopted.

It is almost certain that from $3000 to $5000 of the money will be spent in further excavation, by hand, at the municipal bowl, but the city is forced to acquire more property before the work on the west side of the bowl can be completed and the council has not completed its negotiations with W. J. Sackman, owner of the property.

Land Purchase Up
Sackman was present at the meeting last night, asking $2100 for a 40 foot strip along the west side of the bowl. The strip is approximately 460 feet in length and amounts to almost half an acre, or about three city lots. The council wants to pay $1500 for the property. No agreement was reached. The city has some First National Bank stock and a deal may be made whereby Sackman will take the stock for the property.

Harbor Use
Making his annual report, Low Wallace of Newport Beach, harbor committee chairman, declared that during the past fiscal year the city of Newport Beach and Orange county has expended $13,720 in the dredging and straightening of channels at the harbor entrance. The entrance is in better shape than ever before, he said.

There has been more commercial use of the harbor during the past year than all former years put together, he said. He quoted figures to prove the point. A census recently completed by the harbor master of Newport Beach reveals that there has been a big increase in the number of yachts in excavation work there. The city has no money for materials and the $12,000 can be used only for labor, so the placing of seats on the west side of the bowl probably will have to wait awhile, it was pointed out.

One suggestion, which would put a number of men to work and at the same time add to the program of bowl work, was the sodding of the bowl. It was brought out that this would interfere with spring baseball there, but Mayor Paul Witmer said that he believed that most of the ground could be sodded at this time. This would cost approximately $2000, making a total of $5000 spent on labor in the bowl.

More Excavating
Another plan suggested was the excavating for a swimming pool on the north end of the bowl property. This would require the services of a large number of men and probably would use up the remainder of the money. Again, materials would be needed, but the city may do the excavating at this time and count on procuring materials later.

It was pointed out that the city must adopt its work program within the next few days before the money actually arrives here and that time is short. The city expects to receive $12,000 more on May 1, and probably the same amount for several months, so it is necessary that the first working plan be ready when the first money arrives.

Hugh Gerrard, member of the Citizens Emergency Relief committee, met with the council last night and suggested that the $600 per month his organization received as a donation be turned over to the city to purchase materials needed for any enterprise it might start. In return, the city would employ only unemployed from the association. Gerrard declared that money received by these laborers from the city then could be spent at the commissary, and the unemployment committee would get its $600 back.

The city council liked the idea and it probably will be adopted, although no definite action was taken last night.

Gerrard said there were some 400 men that could be put to work, representing 750 families in Santa Ana.

Other Suggestions
The big question confronting the council is the adopting of a working plan in which no materials would be needed. This is almost impossible, it was pointed out, so much of the discussion was made regarding ways and means of raising money to purchase materials. With the $600 from the unemployed as a starter, the council decided that it might be feasible to deliver water bills by hand for several months which would save the city $100 and there was some discussion on the possibility of charging homeowners for collecting garbage and trash. It was pointed out that Santa Ana was one of the few cities in the state where no charge was made.

By charging 50 cents per month for garbage and trash collection for a period of just two months only, the council could save enough money to purchase material for any program that has been suggested it was said. A saving of at least $2000 per month could be made and at the same time the burden on the tax payer would not be great.

Councilman Albert Legay proposed the plan.

ORANGE COUNTY GOVERNMENT BILL PASSED

Orange county government bills calling for an annual saving of $50,000 in salaries which passed the state senate yesterday will become effective in August.

The bill, which was passed by the assembly several days ago, provides for a reduction of salaries of all county officials and employees employed under the county government act. The reductions were based upon a sliding scale ranging from 20 per cent downward. The scale was based upon the salaries paid with no reductions being made on salaries under $75 per month.

Included in the county government bills is one transferring the Orange county fruit patrol from control of the district attorney to that of the sheriff. This bill was included in recommendations by the grand jury.

FRUIT GROWERS EXCHANGE SIGNS UP FOR PRORATE

LOS ANGELES, March 29. — After unanimous approval by the California Fruit Growers Exchange board of directors of the navel and valencia stabilization agreements proposed by the farm Bureau, the Exchange, representing almost three-fourths of the state orange crop, signed the agreements today and is ready to immediately begin prorating and regulating shipments with other marketing groups to whom the same agreements have been submitted by the farm bureau, according to an official statement from Paul Armstrong, general manager of the Exchange.

"The exchange has been given complete authority by the recent agreements signed by its own orange packing associations, to definitely regulate its own shipments as well as to cooperate with others, and we are not only ready, but eager to begin a statewide regulation of shipments in order to improve the returns to our growers, both on navels and valencias," Armstrong said.

"This Farm Bureau stabilization agreement covers everything that has been proposed in the many discussions and conferences held by packing house managers and marketing groups during the past few weeks. It takes care of loose fruit as well as packed fruit," said Armstrong, "and the only thing remaining to put it into immediate operation is the signature of enough marketing groups outside the Exchange to bring 90 per cent or more of the state crop under the plan."

"Exchange orange associations have indicated their confidence in the ability of the central Exchange board to act for them in prorating shipments within the Exchange and in cooperation with other shippers, just as Exchange lemon associations did several years ago. Our lemon growers have never had reason to regret their action and it is our hope and belief that the new Exchange orange agreement will bring the same result. Certainly the directors and the management are going to do everything they can to make the plan a success. "We realize that there has been confusion in the minds of many growers over the different agreements discussed in recent meetings and in the citrus belt press. Let me make it clear to all growers that the Exchange orange agreement covers all fruit, loose or packed, and provides for equitable prorating and distribution among exchange members. The Farm Bureau stabilization agreement does the same thing for all fruit, loose and packed, for all citrus marketing agencies in the state that sign it.

"These stabilization agreements provide an equality of sales opportunity on a percentage basis for all growers. They provide the means for the elimination of surplus fruit on the basis that we sell all the fruit we can of the grades and sizes that bring the most money, and keep the balance at home."

In recommending the stabilization agreement for immediate signature, Armstrong commented on the "untiring and effective work done by the Farm Bureau joint stabilization committee headed by Dr. D. D. Waynick, Anaheim, and the following other representative and public spirited citrus growers": Jack Crill, Garden Grove; Allyn Wheaton, Redlands; E. D. Patterson, Redlands; Perry Mathis, Anaheim; J. A. Baker, Anaheim; M. W. H. Williams, Redlands; Arthur McFadden, Santa Ana; N. Matzen, Escondido; A. L. Cruickshank, Santa Ana; Volney Kincaid, Redlands; and H. A. Lynn, Riverside.

WHEN MONEY IS ACTIVE!

There is more money in this country today than there was in 1929. The trouble is that it isn't circulating fast enough. It is free and rapid circulation of money that makes "good times."

Patronizing home enterprises is important because it keeps money moving here at home to the benefit of the entire community. Keeping business active in our city is a task in which all of us can share... and this bank is an instrument through which local people and business houses can work together to their mutual advantage.

Local Briefs

With so much interest manifested in various wisteria vines just now at the height of their annual blooming, attention has been called to the pergola at the home of Mrs. Charles D. Brown, Red Hill avenue, which is said to offer a vine that rivals in beauty the famous Sierra Madre wisteria. The first slips were planted 20 years ago by the late Coroner Charles D. Brown, and were from the famous vines at San Leandro.

News of the death of Mrs. Louise Bruck, wife of Herbert D. Bruck of Glendale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Shugart of Santa Ana, was received today. Mrs. Bruck was educated in Santa Ana and had many friends here who grieve her death.

CONDITION OF GUN VICTIM IMPROVING

The condition of James Meehan, Orange rancher, mysteriously shot while he was asleep at his home in Orange last Sunday morning, was reported improved today.

He had a rather quiet night, attending physicians stated but his condition was still regarded as most critical.

The sheriff's office, working on the case, was again today unable to throw any additional light on the mystery shooting. Meehan, who was asleep in his bed at the time, was fired on by an assailant standing outside his bedroom window. A shotgun was used and the charge struck his shoulder, ranging downward.

No motive of the crime has been unearthed.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

— News Behind the News —

WASHINGTON
By Paul Mellon

OUTLOOK—The Hoover business chart shows a decline for February and March. That fool-proof collection of business statistics founded by the former President for his personal use discloses this month just how hard the financial situation hit business and trade.

It does not peer into the future. But those who make it do. They think the immediate problem in business is to release the 10 to 15 per cent of the nation's bank deposits still tied up in closed banks.

They are confident the miraculously better feeling engendered by the new Administration will show in figures soon.

You can tell just how far we are away from the average business of 1922-25 by comparing each of the following figures with 100:

Month	Prod'n	Emp't	Loadings	Sales	Value	Value (All types)
Dec. 1931	74	69.4	69	81	46	48
Jan. 1932	72	68.1	64	78	39	42
Feb.	68	58.3	51	67	32	27
Mar.	66	56.2	54	70	32	30
Nov.	65	61.3	57	65	32	32
Dec.	68	60.6	58	62	32	30
Jan. 1933	68	59.4	56	60	31	29
February	64		54	61	29	26

The figures are official only, which they will not soon reach through February but the unofficial statistics for March indicate the banking situation forced us still lower that month. Improved confidence during the last two weeks of March could not offset the complete stagnation earlier.

There are two bright spots the figures do not show. They are textiles and foodstuffs. The cloth output in March was better than February. Hoarding in foods lifted the price of them. In practice, the president's order permitting withdrawals from banks for purchases of necessities.

Everything else is down. In automobiles there has been almost a complete shutdown. At 18 building contracts are less than one-fifth of what they were in 1922-25. Cotton exports got down to the level of 1904.

The improvement in department store sales means thrifty buying. The latest from New York is that stores there now are running about 22 to 25 per cent below the level of last year. Their ratio of trade is generally slightly higher than the rest of the country. Prospects for Easter buying are not rosy due to the banking situation in certain communities.

Mrs. Frances Perkins in person is the reason why there are no factory employment figures this month. She refused to release the figures regularly collected by the labor department. No explanation was offered. She has been very busy running around to social affairs and congressional committees since her inauguration. Nothing is to go out of her department until she sees it. Also she is known to have criticized figures issued by the labor department in the past.

SECURITY
Behind all these recent federal banking maneuvers is the gradual approach toward unified banking. You can get an even money bet from officials now that it will come naturally within the next few years.

Nobody wants to advertise it for fear of frightening the small banks. Yet it is quite clear that events of the past two years have given state banks a blow from which they will not soon recover. That was an unstated purpose of the Robinson bank bill just passed. On the outside it looks like a generous effort of federal reserve to help the state banks. Actually it puts the federal finger into the state banking pie for the first time.

The federal reserve will make no loans to state banks without first conducting a thorough examination of them. In practice that will amount virtually to federal reserve supervision of those state banks wanting loans.

Add to this the fact that nearly every high official in Washington is in favor of unified banking but afraid to say so. Also that applications for entry into the federal reserve system are running so high they cannot be handled. Likewise the fact that thousands of state banks are already out of business.

The tendency is clear; the result inevitable.

MONEY
Banking figures continue to improve. That national phase of the emergency is over.

Conditions remain very bad in a few states. It is only a question of time until they are rectified. The situation probably is worse in Louisiana than anywhere else.

Latest public figures indicate half the money hoarded since February 1 has been returned up to last Wednesday. More has come back since then. That movement will continue.

The strain was so swiftly relieved that the treasury stopped printing the new bank notes. Extra shifts at the bureau of engraving were laid off. The amount of money issued was probably less than 10 million. The inflation did not go very far along that line.

The new farm mortgage scheme involves a strong credit inflation along a new line. Authorities claim it will be held within a billion but they do not know. Nobody can tell until the system starts working.

NOTES
The reason Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen did not take an ambassadorship was that she wanted a good paying job to balance her own family budget. The treasuryship of the United States is a soft snap. All Mrs. Ross will have to do is to redeem currency which is torn or wears out. They say Spain is the best diplomatic post for a man who must earn his own living and that is why Claude Bowers, the writer took it. The private belief of our diplomats is that Hitler will not last out his four years. He has the fire of Mussolini but his common sense is yet to be exhibited. They were wrong however on Mussolini and the Reds both of whom were advertised for diplomatic extinction long before this.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

UTILITIES
Floyd Carlisle's hastily telegraphed agreement with Governor Lehman's utility program stirred both amusement and resentment here. Carlisle is head of Morgan-controlled Consolidated Gas and big shot in the Edison Electric Institute. Comment runs that he—like Aldrich of the Chase—evidently intends to be among the survivors when the new deal storm has cleared. It may not be that easy.

Now utility companies are prepared to swallow whatever doses Lehman or the federal government prescribe without making a face. They are not last-ditchers in any sense and would rather plead guilty in advance than stand trial later. But they fear that yes-ing the authorities may not suffice to save time from official razberies. This fear appears well-founded.

Investigation of utility group will deal in part with the value of the investment bankers for floating security issues. Some of the figures will be interesting to bondholders.

The chief remaining hope of the utilities is that the reform program will not expand to include rate cuts but their hopes are slim. Some of them have already started advertising campaigns to prove that taxes and fixed interest charges make rate reductions impossible. Plans are also afoot to mobilize security holders in defense of the embattled companies.

RAILS
"Inside tips" about rail stocks are floating around in profusion. One of the fanciest says that New York Central stock is due to double in price. It looks as if somebody wants to unload—but the bait is a trifle obvious.

BLUE SKY
A bill has been drafted by New York experts which would regulate the issuance and sale of securities in the state. Its provisions are so stringent that if it is adopted a security offered to the public could have to be practically as good as a government bond. The details of the bill are being closely guarded to prevent any organized opposition from banking interests. It may be enacted into law within 90 days.

STOCK MARKET
Odd lot houses are peeved at whoever started the published reports that odd lot business has been booming since the exchange reopened. It wasn't true—even on the first day.

The public continues bluntly uninterested in market gyrations. There were a few wild-eyed exceptions on the opening day who offered savings bank passbooks to brokers as collateral. The brokers declined with thanks—and the would-be customers should now be duly grateful.

STOCK EXCHANGE
The stock exchange is still hoping to escape federal regulation by playing up its campaign for better accounting methods. In one known case a listed corporation turned out one financial statement for exchange authorities and an entirely different one for its stockholders and the public. The corporation tried to have the broker who unearthed this fact fired from the exchange for "bearing" their stock. He wasn't.

The exchange is also playing up the thought with congressional contacts that its discipline is much stricter than legal regulation could hope to be—which is true. But insiders are pessimistic about keeping out of the federal drag-net.

YOUNG
The betting here is that Owen Young will be denied his position to remain an officer of both General Electric and Radio Corporation. His rating as a prominent Democrat will not gain him special favors. In this event he will almost certainly stick with Radio Corporation—unless Rockefeller decides otherwise.

WAGES
Total wage cuts in one of the large telegraph companies now aggregate 64 per cent of the rates paid in 1929. Reductions have been made gradually in the form of straight cuts, enforced vacations, shorter working hours and elimination of overtime pay.

Frogs Threaten Replacement Of Clinic Turtles

MEMPHIS (UP)—The popularity of the Arkansas turtle is becoming a victim of the depression. Cheap Indiana frogs threaten the Arkansas turtle market.

At the University of Tennessee medical school, where young medics learn about reflexes, muscular activity, brain-spinal cord relationships, heart action and such by studying animals, there has been a movement away from the Arkansas turtle to the Indiana frog.

The explanation for the shift is economy.

Whereas turtles have remarkably big hearts which are so well suited for the scrutiny of students, hearts which stoutly stand up under the probing of the young surgeons, they are expensive.

The university doesn't have the heart to expect the taxpayers to put out 25 cents apiece for turtles to goin these big hearts when there is a man in Indiana who will ship fine frogs for 60 cents a dozen.

So, he sure, the frogs aren't as big-hearted as the turtles, but they have their points. The muscles of the turtle are nothing to work with compared with the splendid reflexes of the frog.

However, the terrapin has not been entirely vanquished from the laboratory by the frog.

2 PLAYS GIVEN AS MEMBERS OF W. C. T. U. MEET

ORANGE, March 29.—Marked by a large attendance of members and guests, the meeting of Orange W. C. T. U., held yesterday afternoon in First Presbyterian church parlors was in observance of Union Signal day. Mrs. Angeline Courtney, local and county Union Signal director, had arranged the program.

The value of temperance news contained in the Union Signal, a national paper, was stressed in a playlet, "The Teachers Discuss the Situation." In the cast were Mrs. Flora Ralph, Miss Carrie Heywood, Mrs. Ida Putnam, Mrs. Wheeler and Miss Elsie Parsons.

Under the direction of Mrs. Mary Gross a playlet was presented by Mrs. Clara L. Sumner, Miss Mary Heywood, and two children who are members of the Loyal Temperance Legion, Marie Riggle and Ruby Minney. This brought out the value of "The Young Crusader," a temperance publication for boys and girls.

Mrs. L. L. Allis read an article telling of the dry law fight being launched by women, after which Mrs. Pearl Kendall Hess, a national director of the W. C. T. U., explained the aims of the Women's Union for Political action. Herself a member of a special Southland committee of the Union for Political action, Mrs. Hess explained that all Christian women will be given an opportunity to join the organization in the very near future. By this en masse movement, women in favor of the eighteenth amendment are combining their efforts effectively.

Mrs. Hess pointed out. Pledges and other material for prospective members will be sent here soon, she said.

Mrs. Fred Scharr, music director, led in singing and gave vocal solos. She was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Ida Putnam.

Mrs. Clara L. Sumner, evangelistic director, introduced Mrs. F. M. Gulick, who gave devotionals on "Have Faith in God."

Members responded to roll call with items of interest along temperance or spiritual lines. Mrs. Hess reported on results which had been achieved by protesting to wet congressmen, urging members to send in their protests. Mrs. Rebecca Pope read an article which stated that nature has never repealed the laws of alcoholic effects.

Mrs. Minnie Neville, president, was in charge of the meeting. She announced that union prayer bands are held every Wednesday morning from 9:30 to 10 o'clock in the home of Mrs. W. H. Patrick, 135 South Cypress street.

Guests at the meeting included members of the El Modena W. C. T. U.

Builders' Class In Games, Stunts

ORANGE, March 29.—More than 100 were present Monday evening, when members of the Home Builders' class of the First Christian church met in the lower auditorium for a covered dish supper and an evening of games, stunts and contests. Tables were decked with bouquets of sweetpeas and bridal wreath and were lighted with pale yellow tapers.

Special plans were made for the entertainment of the children of the class members. Hosts for the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Robinson and the Rev. and Mrs. Franklin H. Minck.

Mrs. Newell Moore Hostess To Club

ORANGE, March 29.—Mrs. Newell Moore entertained members of the Tuesday Evening Sewing club in her Garden Grove home last night. The hostess served a salad course with sandwiches and coffee and a dessert course of icebox cake topped with whipped cream.

Present were Mesdames Glenn Reek, Neleta Wolfe, B. D. Fletcher, Leon Des Larzes, Robert Robinson, Ross Harlan, Dayton Ditchey, Clayton Ferrin, Franklin H. Minck and the hostess, Mrs. Moore.

Bible Proverbs Free Prisoner

SEATTLE (UP)—A. F. Ljunghammer believes in parental discipline. And he backs up his disciplinary measures with Biblical knowledge.

Arrested here recently for beating his 13-year-old son because the lad didn't want to go to church, Ljunghammer told police: "Proverbs, 22:15—He that spareth his rod hateth his son."

Police were impressed. But continued investigating.

"And in Proverbs 22:5 Ljunghammer informed them, 'It says: Foolishness is bound in the heart of a child; but the rod of correction shall drive it from him.'"

Police were even more impressed, and so was his little son, Oscar.

So when Mrs. Ljunghammer refused to swear out a warrant the father was permitted to return home with the admonition that if "he did not spare his rod he would have to 'spell' in the jail."

DRY WORKERS PREPARE TO FIGHT ATTEMPTS TO SELL BEER IN ORANGE AND COUNTY

ORANGE, March 29.—Determination to oppose any attempt to sell beer in Orange and Orange county was expressed with adoption of a resolution at a meeting held at the Woman's clubhouse last night. The meeting was called for the purpose of organizing a committee to work for the retention of the 18th amendment and to oppose beer sales. Officers elected were, Ralph Hull, chairman; Mrs. Gladys McDonald, secretary, Miss Leah Fernald, treasurer.

Those present were representatives from churches and civic organizations of the city and numbered about 75 men and women. During the evening 53 persons signed up for active participation in the campaign and the temporary name of Campaign Committee for the Retention of the Eighteenth Amendment was adopted. A central committee was named and this includes Ralph Hull, S. B. Edwards, D. C. Drake, Mrs. F. B. Scharr, Mrs. Gladys McDonald, Mrs. Jennie Conner and Mrs. Clara Rozell. It was decided to allow for expansion of the central committee and new committee members are to be added at the discretion of the chairman, Mr. Hull.

Following the adoption of the resolution outlining the stand to be taken by the group on the sale of beer in Orange county, action was taken to present the resolution both to the Orange city council at a meeting to be held April 4 and to the board of supervisors.

Organized precinct work and discussion groups were two of the plans made for campaign work. Dr. Robert Burns McAulay was appointed to contact A. F. Newcomb, one of the secretaries of the Anti-Saloon league to head discussion groups which are to prepare for precinct work.

It was declared that there is an appalling amount of ignorance regarding beer. The Rev. L. V. Lutes, pastor of the First Methodist church, stressed the fact that in saloon days, of the intoxicating beverages consumed, 92 per cent was beer. Beer men are interested in keeping out foreign liquors, the pastor said, as he pointed out that the beer problem is one of the most dangerous facing the county.

Dr. Robert Burns McAulay stated that the dry forces must be prepared for an old fashioned liquor fight. Action was taken to send a telegram commending Congressman Sam Collins for voting against the beer bill in congress.

Miss Carrie Heywood, treasurer of the board of strategy which functioned during the fall political campaign, presented the newly organized group with $8.11 from the treasury of the board. This sum added to about $5 collected last night, was placed in the hands of the treasurer.

The shortness of time in which to work was stressed and it was brought out that it is probable a state bond issue will be placed before voters of the state in June and that it is probable that delegates to a convention to decide on retention of the eighteenth amendment will be voted on at this time.

The central committee is to meet at frequent intervals, it was stated.

ROOT CUTTING DEMONSTRATED FOR GROWERS

Growing interest in windbreak planting and management was evidenced at the windbreak root cutting demonstration held by the Agricultural Extension service and citrus department of the farm bureau. About 100 growers were in attendance to see the heavy duty root cutter in operation at the San Joaquin fruit ranch, east of Tustin.

C. V. Newman, manager of the ranch, explained the economic value of the windbreak, based on the experience of their plantings. He said that protection against wind is essential to the production of quality fruit. The deed to each property has a clause that makes the windbreak pertinent to the land and insures its permanency. The tract maintains 25 miles of windbreaks, which are regularly irrigated, fertilized and root pruned.

J. H. Bray, manager of the Frances Citrus association, which owns and operates the root cutting outfit, described the machine. It is a giant subsoiler built of heavy duty steel structure that is capable of cutting roots to a depth of 48 to 52 inches. It is drawn by a 120 H. P. tractor.

Harold Brewer, member of the Farm Bureau Citrus department, spoke of the value of community windbreak systems and urged that more attention be given to improving the production of quality fruit by providing the necessary protection from the desert winds. He said that at Fontana they have planted 450 miles of windbreaks, which have changed the climate in the individual orchards. Wind velocity has been reduced 75 per cent.

by the presence of the extensive systems of eucalyptus plantings. The Yorba Linda Citrus association, in co-operation with the Yorba Linda Farm center and extension service, has pooled orders for enough eucalyptus seedlings this season to plant about 15 miles of windbreak. This is a good move, he said, that might be emulated by other Orange county communities.

"42ND STREET" TO END SHOWING TODAY

It's been a long time since patrons of the Fox Broadway theater have seen a picture like "42nd Street." It may be a long time before they have another chance. The big picture, called the "Miracle Film" of the year, closes its Santa Ana engagement here tonight.

With Ruby Keeler, who shows clearly how a new star is born, with Warner Baxter and 12 other leading players, together with more than 200 in the chorus, the musical comedy by Warner Brothers has proven one of the biggest attractions the theater has had in more than a year.

Sherlock Holmes At Walker State

"Sherlock Holmes," based on one of Conan Doyle's most gripping detective stories, produced by Fox Films with Clive Brook in the title role, opens its engagement at the Walker's State theatre today. Brook is said to bring to the screen a masterful characterization of the great detective and criminologist who matches wits with his arch enemy, Moriarty, and a gang of American racketeers who inaugurate a reign of terror in London.

The story pivots about the adventures of Sherlock Holmes in his battle with Moriarty and the American racketeering methods the arch criminal employs in an effort to wipe out the great detective.

RE-ELECT FOUR DIRECTORS OF LAGUNA BOARD

Following one of the bitterest campaigns in the history of Laguna Beach, four members of the old board of directors of the Laguna Beach County Water district were returned to office at the election held yesterday, each receiving more than a majority of the 505 votes cast.

The fifth place will have to be decided at a run-off election, April 18, when Judge C. C. (Gavvy) Cravath, fifth member of the board, will be opposed by Lynn Watkins, contractor, who beat him by 10 votes in the contest yesterday, which served as a primary. Four hundred and five votes were necessary to be elected.

Those elected were former Mayor Thomas A. Cummings, now president of the board; City Clerk George W. Prior, Mayor Frank B. Champion and Joseph R. Jahraus, lumber dealer. Cummings, Champion and Jahraus have been members of the board since the district was organized in 1925. Prior was appointed to the board in 1928 and elected in 1929.

Following is the result of the balloting: Cummings, 499; Prior, 484; Champion, 483; Jahraus, 427; Watkins, 380; Cravath, 370; Holwig, 249; Benson, 213; Bishop, 290; Lestrangle, 254; Wilson, 109; Johnston, 63.

Charges of extravagance against the water board were made at a mass meeting held last week and in a circular put out by the Citizens' and Taxpayers' league. The board was accused of having "wasted and spent in an extravagant manner" more than one million dollars. The charges were answered categorically by the board, which produced figures from the record.

Stephen Chalmers noted author, jumped into the campaign at the last minute with a one-page copy of his spasmodically published paper, "The Vigilante," in which he took up the cause of the water board.

N. E. West, one of the leaders of the opposition, declared that he would call for a recount of the ballots.

Cravath, the only member who failed to be elected, was appointed last year, following the death of John L. Brickels, and was not on the board during the period covered by most of the charges.

In the printed charges it was declared that the contract for the main pipe line, extending 13 miles, had been "let to the highest bidder," W. H. Rohl, for $416,000. The board produced records showing that the contract price had been a little more than $354,000.

WARNER BAXTER IN "RAFFLES" ROLE AT WEST COAST

Warner Baxter as a "Raffles," defying his girl to trap him, defying the police to catch him in the act and defying all to stop his wild and merciless ransacking of rich men's homes, for the thrill he gets out of it, is an outline of the play "Dangerously Yours" which is playing at the Fox West Coast theater.

The picture opened there yesterday to a large crowd and proved to be one of the most fascinating pictures the West Coast has boasted of in a long time.

It is based on thrills, wild escapades and a suspense is built up as it runs along that ends with a bang as the film reaches its climax. Marjorie Jordan proves to be the clever little detective who brings the "raffles" to justice in the end. And, its justice he likes, too.

SHAHER GIVES OUTLINE OF WATER BILL

Outlining the water situation in Orange county with particular respect to the newly proposed Orange county water bill and water litigation, Ross Shafer, retiring president of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange County, addressed members and guests of the organization at the annual meeting last night in the Green Cat cafe in Santa Ana.

The exposition came following an oral report from Judge L. F. Cohn of Orange, chairman of the water conservation committee, who said the committee had taken little action during the past year, as there had not been a quorum present at meetings and that he had no report to make.

Shafer began his talk by outlining the history of the present water situation in the county which started when 18 months ago the Santa Ana Valley Water Rights Protective association filed suit against interests and individuals along the coast.

"The water conservation committee," Shafer said, "believed that the filing of that suit was unfortunate. Out of the litigation came a contact between the two groups which resulted in the drafting of a bill. That bill in purpose and principle should merit the support of everyone in the county in the attempt to form a legal entity to deal with water problems."

"Protection of rights in the water basin and the protection of lands and lives in Orange county from floods are of first importance. Other details in the bill, including sewage reclamation and importation of water, due to the opposition of Metropolitan Water District cities, apparently placed those items definitely out of the bill. Metropolitan cities did not desire double taxation."

"At the last meeting of the Association, the bill was supported in spirit and principle. Apparently this was a wise move because a close scrutiny of the bill and the districts set up, as well as certain details, make me believe there is not much prospect of these matters being ironed out and that the bill is not suitable for Orange county."

He called attention to the fact that one section of the bill makes it possible for two out of the seven districts to forestall any new project or even to submit the proposition to a vote of the people after eight years.

"In my opinion the question of the boundaries on the southeast of the district as contemplated should end a mile or so this side and not two miles the other side of Irvine, up to Tomato Springs and skirting the hills down to the bay," he continued. "The boundaries included by description are part of the bill itself. When the bill was submitted to you the page regarding boundaries was blank. They had not been drawn. It is up to you, those who are interested in the water situation, to find out where those lines are before you endorse any bill."

"There are enough other objections to make it necessary to discard the bill or to redraft it. 'I am told that it will be difficult if not impossible to bring the boundary question up again if the suit is settled now, as the boundaries outlined will allow our water to go where lines are drawn regardless of where the basin lines are.'

"It is unreasonable for either of these litigates to be permitted to set up the confines of the district along debatable lines without an engineering survey and full consideration."

SCHOOL BOARD OPPOSES TAX LEGISLATION

Opposition in the state assembly to senate bill No. 543, giving revisionary powers on school budgets to the county supervisors will be urged on Assemblymen James B. Utt and Ted Craig of Orange county by the Santa Ana board of education.

The board last night on motion of Dr. Margaret Baker voted to have Superintendent Frank A. Henderson communicate with both assemblymen and urge their opposition to the measure which already has passed the senate.

Commenting on the measure, W. M. Burke, member of the board, said that it is un-American and a bad measure in that it places power in the hands of the board of supervisors with the responsibility to the district left on the shoulders of the school board. He pointed out that one supervisor on the board represents each district with four representing other districts practically tying the hands of the one supervisor against any budget cuts the other four members' of the board might see fit to make.

The bill is designed to centralize taxing power and responsibility, proponents of the measure point out.

BOUNDARY SUIT AGAIN COMES BEFORE COURT

Modification of a former ruling and establishment, on the ground, of a tide line at Huntington Beach is sought in a reopening of the old litigation between the Bolsa Land company and the Vaquero Major Oil company. Arguments are being heard by Superior Judge H. G. Ames who handed down the original ruling.

In his opinion handed down November 19, 1931, Judge Ames ruled the tide line is located at a point 3.35 feet above mean low tide line and 3.75 feet above mean sea level but did not locate it on the ground. Reopening of the case is principally for the purpose of having a definite point as tide line.

This hearing is one more in a series of litigations that have been in superior court between the Bolsa Land company and the Vaquero Major Oil company since April, 1930. At that time the Bolsa Land company filed suit for injunction against the oil company alleging that the Vaquero Major Oil company was drilling on tidelands adjacent to land of the Bolsa company and using that land for storing machinery in addition to trespassing on the property.

A temporary injunction pending trial of the action was granted. The injunction suit later was reopened with a motion to interpret the injunction. Later still the case was reopened through a contempt hearing. In November, 1930, the state intervened in behalf of the defendant Vaquero Major Oil company and is represented at the present hearing in the role of intervenor.

When the original suit was filed against the oil company, the Bolsa Land company included a $5000 claim for damages. When the case came to trial in the fall of 1931, however, the prayer for damages was not included.

Dempsey May Be Garden Matchmaker

DECLARE PEACE IN NEW YORK'S RING SQUABBLE

By DAVIS J. WALSH
(I. N. S. Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, March 29.—(INS)—Regardless of the fact that disclaimers seem to be coming from almost everybody available, you can write it down among the family memoirs in a bold, legible hand that peace is soon to be declared here in the war for control of the heavyweight championship.

You also will be justified in assuming that, when Madelon Square Garden and the Schmeling people sit down at the same table again, one of the demands will be that Jack Dempsey is to be "taken care of" by the Garden.

Just how or in what manner, I won't profess to say at this time. But if the Garden wants Schmeling—and it does—and Dempsey wants to operate out of the Garden—and I think he will—the matter can be arranged. That is, provided the setup is satisfactory to all concerned including Mr. Dempsey, who seems to have certain fixed ideas concerning satisfaction. On thinking things over, it will be well to include Mr. James J. Johnston who seems to have a contract.

In any case, a deal is inevitable and all horseplay now being carried on will, when the time comes, run very substantially for a man by the name of E. Pluribus Sweeney. Schmeling is coming back here in a little more than a week to begin training for the Bear fight but even if he wins that one, he'll be no nearer the championship than if his opponent was some very prominent letter carrier with step-children and adenoids.

To be mercifully brief about this somewhat in the manner of McGuffey's Third Reader—Schmeling wants the champion The Garden has the champion. The Garden wants Schmeling. Schmeling wants both.

Or can it be I'm violating a confidence?

BAER INJURED, OUT OF ACTION 2 WEEKS

OAKLAND, March 29.—(UP)—Max Baer rested at home here today, facing two weeks of idleness before he can resume training for his bout with Max Schmeling in New York June 1.

The California heavyweight contender was consigned to the idle ranks when an 80-pound sandbag struck him in the head, knocking him to the floor during a workout in a Sacramento gym. The impact injured the muscles of his neck and shoulders, his handlers said. They may cancel his scheduled exhibition tour to Salt Lake City, Denver and other points en route East.

Baer and his manager, Ancil Hoffman, plan to leave for New York Saturday.

WINN REMAINS AS TURF GROUP CHIEF

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 29.—(UP)—The threatened battle over control of the American Turf association faded today since Federal Judge Cochran approved the association's purchase of $6,000 shares of its own stock from the receiver for the National Bank of Kentucky.

The stock deal was designed as a move to leave the control of the organization in the hands of present officers, headed by Col. Matt Winn. The stock transfer virtually ends a proxy fight for control of the racing body, started a few days ago by a committee which charged mismanagement and excessive salaries for officials.

WARNER BEGINS SPRING DRILLS AT TEMPLE U.

PHILADELPHIA, March 29.—(INS)—"Pop" Warner, the "Old Fox" of Stanford, has invaded his new stamping grounds at Temple university like a whirlwind.

Fifty-six hopefuls turned out for their first practice Monday and they went right to work learning the rudiments of the "Warner System." "And in a week, we'll have our first scrimmage," Pop declared today.

"The material looks good and the boys have lots of spirit. We ought to have a successful season," he vouchsafed.

"The toughest game will be with Villanova, our traditional rival. Carnegie Tech, South Carolina and West Virginia will be just as hard but we ought to beat them." Warner wasted no time getting spring practice under way. The boys came to work in their football boots instead of the usual running outfits with Helme Miller, Temple's former head coach; "Chuck" Winterburn and Fred Swan assisting. There wasn't a dull moment.

One of the first changes Warner instituted was a ban on shoulder tackling. The new old coach insisted that his proteges use their arms. He believes the risk of shoulder injury is too great under the old method.

Next Warner scrapped the spiral pass from center. Instead he ordered an end over end pass from pivot players.

S. C. Freshmen To Face Compton J.C.

LOS ANGELES, March 29.—After winning straight meets, freshman track stars of the University of Southern California will risk their undefeated record Friday when they will face the Compton junior college squad, one of the strongest teams in Southland jaycee ranks, at 3:30 on Bonvard field.

Third baseman Leland Finley returned to Santa Ana Hi's lineup as Coach Orion Nott's nine met Pasadena in Santa Ana will hold the 1935 Southern California Intercollegiate track and field meet April 22. Seth Van Patten, meet manager for the C. I. F., was a Santa Ana visitor.

SWEET KAYOES REMME HECKER IN 2ND ROUND

Remme Hecker was on his way back to Park City, Kan., today, reflecting sadly on the ways and means of amateur boxing.

Claiming 42 victories in 44 starts, big Remme came here last night to test the Orange County Athletic club's reigning sensation, husky Harold Sweet. Hecker did not act like he had ever fought more than two or three times, and Sweet, who has been given some pretty easy targets for beginners, had no trouble at all flattening the overfed Kansan in two rounds.

Hecker apparently gave all he had, but he hardly laid a glove on the aggressive Sweet. The 19-year-old Brea giant drove Hecker all over the place in the first round, and dropped Remme down twice in the second, the last "fall" being a knockout.

Sweet will have to prove his worth next Tuesday. He will be on top again, this time against Frank "Iron Man" Burke, a hustling light heavy who stopped "Rube" Nestorino in the special event.

Nat Mills scored a technical knockout over Jose Chico, a veteran Mexican lightweight, in the semi.

Chico was down a couple of times before Referee Ralph Claytor stopped it in the second round.

Next week's main-eventer, Burke, hit too hard for Nestorino, a lanky Glendale junior college boy, who resigned in the first heat after the Irishman had bashed his ribs a few times.

As usual, the run of preliminaries outlasted the feature events. Freddie Young, one of Delhi's best attractions, shaded Joe Black in a splendid engagement which many thought belonged to Dick. Frank McMannon knocked out Bill Tolian in two, Doyle Richards decided black Obie Brown in the best fight of the evening. Tony Vigil nosed out Leo Lopez in another sizzler. Bill French won from Frankie Garcia. Ritchie Garcia stopped Tito Condon in two, Bill Marcus outpointed Rico. Ponca, Tille Herman beat Mac Fasfok. Primo Alvarado opened the show by kayoing Eddie Pruitt in the first.

Mrs. Moody Says Men Superior To Women On Court

SAN FRANCISCO, March 29.—(INS)—"I believe that men of the top rank can defeat women players of the same ranking." This was the comment today of Helen Willis Moody, tennis queen, in a parallel statement to that of Maureen Orcutt, leading woman golfer, that women athletes can meet men on an equal footing in golf.

Mrs. Moody explained that her opinion was confined to tennis, and that she doubted whether a comparison between conditions in tennis and golf was justified. "I believe that practicing with men will help a woman player," Mrs. Moody said, "but don't try to beat them."

DAVIS TO HELP PICK U. S. TENNIS SQUAD

NEW YORK, March 29.—Dwight F. Davis, St. Louis, dignitary of the International tennis trophy which bears his name and member of the first Davis Cup team, was named to the cup selection committee which will choose the United States 1935 team.

The inclusion of Davis on this committee of 10 experts was interpreted as marking renewal of close association with the game. While Davis was secretary of war and later governor-general of the Philippines, his duties prevented participation in directing American Davis Cup affairs.

ARIZMENDI EASILY DEFEATS MASQUERA

LOS ANGELES, March 29.—(UP)—Under the guidance of a new manager, Ray Arizmendi of Mexico City began his attempt to regain lost prestige and another chance at Freddie Miller's N. B. A. featherweight title today.

He took a long forward step when he easily defeated Pedro Masquera at Guayquil, Ecuador in a 10-round bout at the Olympic last night. The Baby was credited with taking every round here yesterday. The teams played again today. Score: Arizmendi 7-2, Masquera 2-7.

OAKLAND—Lew Fonseca's Chicago White Sox were to try for their second straight victory over Oakland today, but the first round of the series was postponed because of a rainstorm. The Sox won yesterday's game, 3 to 0. Gregory, hurling all the way, yielded a scant five hits while his teammates were collecting 10 off McEvoy and Joiner.

WOODLAND—Curtained squads were reported in camps of Portland and Mission here today for an exhibition series. Manager Spencer Abbott of the Beavers reported he has leased Owen, an outfielder from Salt Lake City, and Shimer, Los Angeles shortstop. Hoffman, Mission pilot, dismissed Roy Cloyes and sent Roy Mort, infielder, to Wilmington, N. C. Both teams were rained out of a scheduled contest yesterday.

HOME RUNS AID POMONA CARDS ROUT S. A., 12-3

Two home runs, directly accounting for seven scores, gave Pomona's hard-hitting Cardinals an easy 12-3 victory over Coach Bill Footie's Santa Ana Saints in a non-league baseball game at Pomona yesterday.

Seven innings of mediocre play indicated that Santa Ana must improve greatly before meeting Pasadena at Pasadena next week. The Saints went out in 1-2-3 order in five of the seven innings and with the exception of the sixth, there was nothing impressive about their early season performance.

With First Baseman Floyd Montgomery, one of the leading hitters of the 1932 season, in its lineup for the first time, Santa Ana was at full strength against Pomona, but showed less than it did in defeating Long Beach Woodrow Wilson 8-7 the afternoon of the recent earthquake.

Three hits off Gordon Mallett, Saint hurler, in the first inning earned Pomona three runs, and scoring one in the second, the Cardinals enjoyed a 4-0 lead until the fifth, when a walk by Montgomery, a single by Willie Jones and four Pomona errors pushed across two runs for Santa Ana.

The 4-2 count, however, did not last very long. Pomona scoring four times in both the fifth and sixth on extra base hits, two of which were home runs. Leaman, centerfielder, scored on a fielder's choice after reaching third on a triple, and Smith rapped a home run with men on first and second to account for Pomona's first rally with two out in the fifth. Daugherty's clutch blow in the sixth with the bases loaded brought in the other Cardinal runs.

Pitcher Mallett, fanning six Pomona players and allowing eight bingles, hurled good ball in the early innings, but went to pieces in the fifth and sixth. The Cardinals used Toler and Piper on the mound, both having fair success. Francis Conrad, third baseman and leading hitter of the Long Beach contest, led the Saint stickmen again, with two singles in three times to bat. Montgomery, Jones and Ojeda each hit safely once.

With their Long Beach Poly game indefinitely postponed, the Saints will meet the strong Santa Ana junior college team in a regional contest at Poly field tomorrow at 3:15.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 29.—Eight nominees, ranked by Quickaway, were in the running today for the inaugural handicapped feature race of the opening program at Tanforan track tomorrow.

Quickaway, a sensation at the Agua Caliente meeting where it won seven straight races, was named a starter yesterday along with Joe Flores, Snorky, High Shop, Sharp Thongens, Magline, Las Palmas, Bonhomest and Gratian.

PIPING 'EM OFF

SANTA BARBARA—The Seattle Indians defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates, 7 to 6, in an exhibition game here yesterday. The teams played again today. Score: Seattle 7-2, Pittsburgh 2-7.

CUBS TO TRAIN IN SOUTHLAND AGAIN IN 1934

LOS ANGELES, March 29.—(UP)—The Chicago Cubs will continue training in Southern California for many years to come, President William Veeck announced today, despite the decision of the New York Giants to return to Florida for their winter conditioning.

"Chicago will train in California whether any other big clubs ever come out here," Veeck stated.

And while gazing out of the window at rain which caused cancellation of yesterday's game between the Cubs and the Hollywood Stars, President Veeck arrived at other important decisions.

Veeck turned over to the Los Angeles Angels on option Leroy Hermann, Coast league pitcher who made a big hit with the Cubs in the few weeks he worked for them last season.

George "Lucky" Stainback, the Angels' prize outfielder, who was sold to the Cubs for $75,000 and Pitcher "Buck" Newsom, will remain with the Angels for further seasoning.

First Baseman Harry Taylor also was released, to the Albany club of the International league. Incidentally, Veeck's announcement assures the Angels of a pennant-contending team this year, something they have not had since Marty Krug's club made a runaway race in 1926.

Trojans Win From Stanford Nine, 4-1

LOS ANGELES, March 29.—The University of Southern California hoped today to make it two straight over the visiting Stanford baseball team, following its 4 to 1 victory in a California Intercollegiate league game yesterday. The California Bears previously had defeated the Trojans twice.

LOS ANGELES, March 29.—(INS)—Coach Amos Alonzo Stagg, 71-year-old veteran of the gridiron was experimenting today with a new stance for linemen in spring training at College of the Pacific here.

"I used this stance several years ago at Chicago," Stagg said. "It's merely the leaning of the weight on both hands, with the feet not as far to the rear as usual. It gives the guards and tackles more speed in pulling out."

Stagg said he believed the stance was an innovation so far as coast football was concerned.

SCHOOL BOARD NOTIFIED 'TEX' WILL BE BACK

"Tex" Oliver will return here next fall as Santa Ana high school's football coach.

He said so himself, in a communication addressed to Frank Henderson, superintendent of schools, who advised the board of education of the message last night.

Oliver is now at Tucson, acting as head coach of the University of Arizona's track and field squad. His contract there expires in June. Notifying Santa Ana authorities of his intentions, Coach Oliver complied with the board of education's request that it be advised of his plans by April 1 so that steps could be taken to appoint his successor here if he would not return.

Oliver wrote Henderson that his health is greatly improved and that he believed he would be feeling as well as ever by next September when Santa Ana schools reopen after the summer holidays. "Tex" was about 20 pounds under weight when the long 1932 grid schedule closed.

Regarded as the most able of Southern California prep coaches, Oliver was prominently mentioned as a possible appointee at Oregon State college after Paul Schiesser resigned at Corvallis. His determination to return here indicates that he is not pressing his candidacy for the northern assignment.

HOOKS and SLIDES by BILL BRAUCHER

MAKING IT SNAPPY

Jimmy Thompson, professional at Lakewood golf club, near Long Beach, Calif., thinks women are easier to teach than men. . . . Bill Lane, owner of the Hollywood, Pacific Coast league club, says he could get $50,000 for pitcher Frank Shellenback if Landis would lift the ban on Frank's spthball. . . . Fred Kelly, winner of the Olympic high hurdles at Stockholm in 1912, flies the mail between Los Angeles and Salt Lake City.

HIGH REENT

The totalizer at Hialeah Park, which computes magically odds on each horse as soon as a bet is registered, is rented from an Australian corporation which gets five per cent of the take. . . . which rent amounted to $450,000 during the recent meeting in which more than $5,000,000 was wagered. . . . It was because Wesley Feeler knew how to orate, more than because of his football knowledge, that the Ohio State All-American got that coaching job at Harvard. . . . He knocked the professors off their feet with a speech about football ideals at a National Collegiate A. A. dinner last December. . . . the moral is salesmanship is its own reward.

THE ANNOYING TILDEN

While on the subject of speeches—how about that noble elocutionary effort of Ellsworth Vines? . . . declining to play in the open tennis championship because he believes "such competition would change the ambition and objective of all amateur tennis champions—would encourage them to win amateur championships not for the glory and honor of American traditions as they do now (Oh yeah?) but to selfishly develop themselves as drawing cards for eventual professional matches?" . . . to which Bill Tilden, "selfish" professional, makes reply. "Obviously Vines fears the professionals." . . . A debate between Tilden and Vines naturally suggests itself. . . . both are swell poppers-off.

IT WAS DONE BEFORE

Boston newspapers carried pictures and stories the other day of how Don George, the rascier, rescued Anne Boland, former Broadway beauty, from the annoyances of a masher. . . . which reminds me of this story from an old book about John L. Sullivan: "One stormy night Sullivan had been giving a sparring exhibition in Lynn, Mass., and at a late hour was passing up and down the platform of the depot waiting for the Boston-bound train. There were a number of sporting characters there who had accompanied him, some of them intoxicated. Sullivan, wrapped in a big heavy overcoat, was standing somewhat apart from them, evidently thinking deeply.

"A lady of the most genteel appearance, and unaccompanied, stepped upon the platform, evidently waiting for the train. One of the loafers stepped up and rudely accosted her. Scarcely had he done so when a swinging left-hander from the puglist struck him broadside in the cheek with a crack like the explosion of a pistol, and until the arrival of the train Sullivan accorded the lady the silent protection of his presence."

So, it isn't anything really new, after all.

Don't Look Like That!

Maybe Gallant Sir, Favored to Win Agua Caliente Handicap, Doesn't Like Cameraman.

THERE'S an evil omen in that bad eye of Gallant Sir for the other nags entered in the Agua Caliente $25,000 handicap race, April 2. The brilliant horse, owned by Norman Church, is a favorite to win, and, judging by his recent record at the track, he should cop in a walk.

"MYSTERY TEAMS" TO CLASH

Bears, Trojans Take Wraps Off at Coliseum Saturday

CALIFORNIA MUCH IMPROVED

LOS ANGELES, March 29.—Over Kenneth McKenzie and Frank Williamson of Southern California.

Two "mystery teams" will have the wraps taken off them in the Coliseum here Saturday when the University of Southern California and University of California track squads open the Pacific Coast conference cinderpath season in the Southland.

Coach Dean Cromwell's men, faced with the task this season of defending their three-year national intercollegiate championship, have looked far from impressive in their only two public showings to date, but their followers believe that there is still more to be learned about the real 1933 Trojan track strength.

Under Coach Brutus Hamilton, the Bears have been making great improvement. In defeating the strong Olympic club team, 75-2-3 to 55-1-3 on March 18, the Californians showed some flashy performances, but they apparently "covered up" last Saturday when they coasted to a win over U. C. L. A. on a rainy day and failed to come up to their marks of the club meet.

Fans, however, are sure of one thing and that is that there will be some hot competition when the wraps are taken off some of the boys. If Bob Kiesel, California's flash, runs, chief interest will lie in his sprint duels with Charley Parsons, S. C.'s latest varsity speed sensation, but if Kiesel is out of the meet, as seems probable, there will still be plenty of thrills, particularly in the middle distances, mile, javelin and pole vault.

One of the most interesting events is certain to be the mile in which Dave Poore, who ran the $80 last year, will hook up with Bob Rafferty. Both have beaten 4:30 running easily so far this season and both are believed capable of getting down to 4:25 or even better. The half-mile should be another fast event, with Lyle Reynolds of Cal, who won the event against the Olympic club in 1:53.4, meeting Morris Watson of S. C., whose best time to date this season is 1:59.

Ed Ablowich, one of the four Olympic team men on the Trojan squad, is the favorite in the quarter-mile, but as he has not yet beaten 50.2 seconds unless he shows considerable improvement he may be upset by Jim Van LobbenSelle, who has done 49.5.

In the hurdles, Captain Jeddy Wells and Bob Lyon of S. C. will find good competition from Dick Coe, who has done 15.2. Bill Graber of the Trojans and Bill Kolbik of the Bears have each cleared 13.6 in the pole vault this season, and Saturday's winner may have to go up around the 14-foot mark.

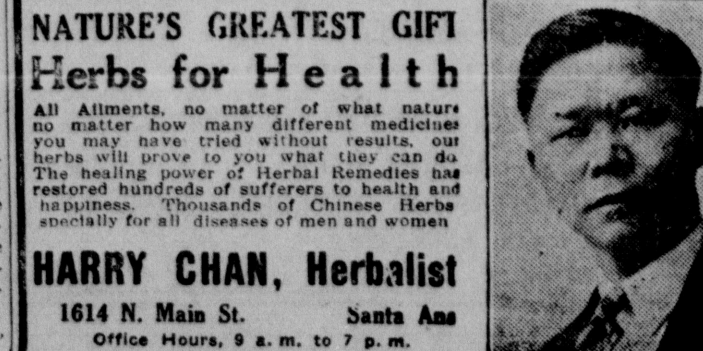

Four good javelin throwers will compete for points with the wand with Captain Jim Miles and Ed Waterbury of California favored.

FLAMES DAMAGE

LA HABRA, March 29.—The La Habra volunteer fire department has called out Tuesday morning when a fire was discovered in the garage at the rear of the H. H. Devore home on West Second street.

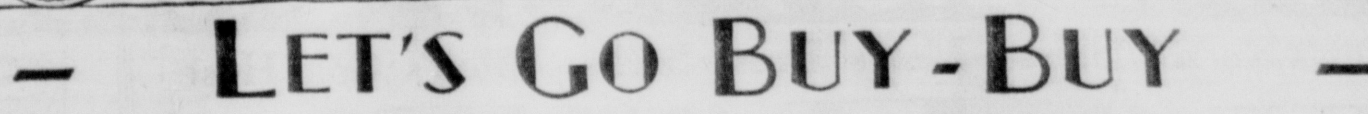

Mr. Devore had some baby chicks in a home-made brooder in the garage and the fire started there, it is believed. He was able to get his car out before it was damaged, but furniture stored in the garage was badly damaged.

Firemen estimated the damage at about $500 to building and contents.

Placentia Man Chosen Head Of Associated C. Of C.

BODY ACTS ON PROTECTION OF FORESTS

Ralph J. McFadden, vice president of Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange County and president of the Orange County Farm Bureau, was elected to the position of president of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange County at the annual meeting held last night in the Green Cat cafe, Santa Ana.

McFadden, resident of Placentia and well known Orange county citizen, will succeed Ross Shafer of Tustin as head of the county organization.

Dr. C. G. Huston, of Costa Mesa, was elected vice president of the Associated to succeed McFadden. George Raymer, secretary of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, was named secretary to replace Harry M. May, of Fullerton.

W. C. Jerome, Santa Ana supervisor, gave the address of welcome at the meeting, lauding the Associated for its work during the past year. The response was made by Sam Meyers, of Newport Beach.

During the meeting, instructions were issued, through an adopted motion, to the secretary to inform state legislators that the Associated still opposes the forced consolidation of school districts within high school districts.

The Associated adopted a motion recommending that criminal negligence or voluntary starting of forest fires should be made a felony instead of a misdemeanor. The same motion urged state legislators not to reduce appropriations to the state forestry department so much that the activities in preventing and extinguishing fires would be curtailed.

A motion was adopted passing a resolution offered by the Orange County Builders' Exchange which declared Orange county should be considered as one trading center and decrying the erection of trade barriers between cities in the county.

Placentia was accepted as the city to hold the meeting of Associated next month, and an invitation from Garden Grove to hold the meeting in that city the following month was accepted.

HEADS C. OF C.
Ralph McFadden, below, president of the Orange County Farm Bureau, was elected president of Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange County at the annual meeting in Santa Ana last night. McFadden, former vice president of Associated, succeeds Ross Shafer, of Tustin, retiring president.

EXPLORER TO SPEAK IN S. A. TONIGHT

Dr. Daniel Davenport, scheduled to speak here at the United Presbyterian church on the night of the earthquake, will be here tonight when he will speak at the church at 7:30 o'clock.

The original meeting, postponed because of the earthquake, had been planned as a dinner meeting but the dinner has been cancelled for the session tomorrow night.

Dr. Davenport is one of the few white men to survive the bite of the deadly cobra and will tell his experiences while stationed for nearly six years in the West African jungles.

This explorer is well known by California educators for his thrilling tales of experiences among gorillas, cannibals and pygmies. Dr. Albert E. Kelly, pastor of the United Presbyterian church, urges the public to hear this unusual speaker. Dr. Davenport plans to leave soon on another scientific expedition and his address here probably will be his last in this vicinity before departure.

MAY FINANCE SCHOOL REPAIRS BY R. F. C. LOAN

Rehabilitation of Santa Ana schools damaged by the earthquake may be financed from Reconstruction Finance Corporation funds. Settling of the question whether or not a school board can legally borrow funds is the only matter to be settled before application for the loan.

The matter came before the Santa Ana board of education last night when Superintendent of Schools Frank A. Henderson notified board members that application blanks for loans had been received. Funds for rehabilitation of school property damaged by the earthquake are available without security, it is said.

W. M. Budke and M. B. Youel were appointed by Chairman George Wells as members of a committee to secure an opinion from the district attorney's office as to whether or not the board has the right to negotiate such a loan. This appointment was made following a motion by Burke authorizing securing of such opinion.

Included in the motion by Burke was authorization of the board to make application for the loan, if there is no legal bar to such application, as soon as the total amount necessary for complete rehabilitation of school property can be ascertained.

The loan, if negotiated, will be sufficient to cover cost of all repairs, including plastering, made necessary by the quake as well as repairing of damage to other school property and equipment.

BENEFITS OF PUBLIC HEALTH DEPARTMENT WORK IN COUNTY POINTED OUT IN ANNUAL REPORT

Declaring that "public health is purchasable, and that within natural limitations a community can determine its own death rate," Dr. Kenneth H. Sutherland, county health officer submitted a report for his department covering 1932, to the board of supervisors yesterday.

In a foreword to the report Dr. Sutherland called attention to "ill-advised recommendations for curtailing essential health activities." Recognizing the plight of the taxpayer, Sutherland's report, however, urged against further economy measures.

The report said, "It is true that the taxpayer is heavily burdened but his unfortunate condition would certainly not be improved and probably made much worse if the necessary funds for health protection were not provided."

In his report Sutherland said:

Health Priceless
"Good health is worth almost any price to the individual who has lost his health. Similarly, the return to a state of community health and safety would be worth almost any expenditure of money to the community in the throes of widespread epidemic of illness and death."

"If communities could only grasp this fact while there is still chance to prevent wide-spread illness and increased death rates, there would be fewer ill-advised recommendations for curtailing essential health activities."

"A properly directed public program can yield monetary returns in prevention of expense from illness and in life and health conservation. A survey of local vital statistics records for the past few years will prove this. If the crude death rate (the number of deaths per 1000 population) which had held true in Orange county previous to 1923 (the year of the establishing of the Orange County health department) had continued in effect during the years since, there would have been 2772 more deaths in the county during the last 10 years than there actually were."

"If we should estimate the value of human life and multiply it by 2772 we would have one factor in the total economic saving to Orange county, which has resulted in recent years from the effective application of community health measures."

"If we analyze these statistics further we find that 447 of this number of lives saved were among the group of infants under one year; and more suggestive still, 1950 of this group of lives saved were saved from death which would have resulted from infectious disease. Thus, out of a total of 2772 lives estimated saved by community health work during the past 10 years, 2427 of these were in the infant mortality and infectious disease group, two branches of disease control in which the health department is most active."

Scope Increased
"The health department of course does not take credit for saving the lives of those ill with infectious diseases since it does not care for cases after they have once become ill, but it does prevent deaths from infectious diseases by preventing the spread of communicable disease cases, of which a certain percentage would result in death."

Dr. Sutherland also pointed out that this decrease in the amount of communicable disease illness means also a saving to the taxpayer. This saving is in money which would otherwise have to be expended for medical and hospital care; school days lost; quarantine and other losses. This sum, he pointed out, swells tremendously the total of saving to the community.

Summarizing activities of the department for 1932 Dr. Sutherland pointed out that due to a budget reduction of 33.1-3 percent which took effect on July 1, the department lost the services of three nurses and one sanitary inspector.

SHERWOOD EDDY TO SPEAK AT H. S. APRIL 3

Dr. Sherwood Eddy will speak to the people of Santa Ana on Monday evening, April 3, at 7:30 in the high school auditorium under the auspices of the Santa Ana Forum.

Sherwood Eddy is regarded as one of the foremost observers and thinkers on international matters. He was for a long time Y. M. C. A. secretary for Asia, and spent many years in India, Japan, China, Korea and Russia. He traveled throughout China addressing the provincial parliaments, boards of trade and other public bodies.

He has written many books, among which are, "The New Era in Asia," "With Our Soldiers in France," "Facing the Crisis," "Russia, a Warning and Challenge," and "The Abolition of War."

He comes to Santa Ana primarily at the request of the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. and will meet those groups at the Junior college during the day of April 3, before making the public address in the evening.

He will speak on the subject of "The World's Danger Zone—The Challenge of the World Situation."

Few, if any, men are more competent to speak on this subject, and few are more worth listening to, those acquainted with the speaker declare.

With a wealth of experience and an intensive knowledge, he speaks from a Christian standpoint and the broadest sympathy, they say.

There will be no fee for admission.

PROBLEM OF MOVING TEACHERS TO PREVENT ATTAINMENT OF TENURE DISCUSSED BY BOARD

Discussion of the probationary teacher problem last night held the attention of members of the Santa Ana board of education. Superintendent of Schools Frank Henderson submitted a list of the 24 probationary teachers who probably will resign April 7 in order that they may return next year as probationary teachers.

Resignation of teachers who would acquire permanent status if they completed the present year and were reemployed next year, was made necessary by the recent action of the board in adopting a policy to not permit additional probationary teachers to acquire a permanent status.

It was pointed out last night that teachers planning to resign in April may be permitted to resign in their own field and, in cases where the teacher can qualify, be employed as substitutes for the remainder of the year in another field.

While no official hope is held out to the teachers that they will be reemployed next year if they resign April 7, it is understood that they will be eligible and will be given first consideration by members of the board.

In a bulletin sent out last week to probationary teachers Henderson said: "Probationary teachers due to become permanent July 1, 1933, may request that their services be terminated April 7, 1933. If they choose to do so."

"No assurance can be given as to reemployment for 1933-34. Uncertainty regarding new legislation, and the necessity of increasing the teacher load, especially in the elementary schools, makes it imperative that no more permanent teachers be added to the teaching corps until such time as definite information is available regarding probable revenues for the year 1933-34."

When the problem of permitting probationary teachers to resign in April was first discussed, Henderson suggested the possibility of trading teachers for the balance of the year with other districts where similar plans had been established against teachers acquiring permanent status. He reported last night that no other district was willing to exchange teachers for the remainder of this year but several probationary teachers could be traded with other counties for the 1933-34 school year.

NEWPORT BOY SCOUTS WIN HIGH HONORS

A signal honor will be bestowed on Newport Beach Troop 5 next Saturday night when Harrison E. White, Orange county Boy Scout executive, presents the troop with the President Hoover 1932 banner for outstanding Scouting work.

According to the records at Orange county Scout headquarters, the Newport Beach Scout troop is the only one in the county which fulfilled all rules and regulations, including troop activities, outdoor camping and hiking, advancements, and in completely organizing every patrol. There are 51 troops in the county and the Newport troop is the only one to receive the banner, 7000 of which were awarded to various troops in the United States.

Vernon Orr is Scoutmaster of the beach troop and Albert Spencer and Wilfred McDonald are his assistant Scoutmasters. The troop is sponsored by the Newport Beach Chamber of Commerce. Jack Twist, former Scoutmaster, has been instrumental in assisting the troop to obtain the Hoover banner, according to White.

IMPORTANCE OF FRUIT INDUSTRY HERE STRESSED

The importance of the orange industry in Orange county and California to general business was stressed by Dr. D. D. Wayne, chairman of the Farm Bureau inter-county citrus committee, in a talk given before members of the Santa Ana Rotary club in Keener's cafe yesterday noon.

Dr. Wayne stressed the importance of stabilizing the orange industry, particularly with regard to the marketing of fruit. He pointed out that the income in Orange county from citrus fruits runs annually from $15,000,000 to $32,000,000 and therefore is of fundamental importance to business in general.

The orange industry employs more men than any other industry in the state, he declared, and because of this the industry is of prime importance not only to grow owners but to all business men. He urged all business men to get behind the program for stabilization of the marketing of oranges.

The speaker outlined the history of the attempt to stabilize marketing of oranges in California, declaring that prospects for stabilization were better now than at any other time in the past.

He told of the unanimous adoption of an orange stabilization agreement this week in Riverside. He said the final draft of the agreement was to be submitted immediately to the various marketing organizations in order that each unit may act as speedily as possible. The program contemplated includes both Valencia and navel oranges, he said.

Dr. Wayne said he believed the final draft of the stabilization agreement would be in operation within the next 30 days.

WM. DOLAN IS NAMED BANK CONSERVATOR

ANAHEIM, March 29.—A high honor and trust in William A. Dolan, president of the Anaheim First National bank, was shown yesterday when he received a telegram appointing him conservator of the bank that failed to open following Governor Rolph's banking holiday. Mr. Dolan declared that the only instructions, in the telegram from the controller of currency at Washington, D.C. was that the deposits in the bank at the beginning of the legal holiday be held. Further instructions will be received in the next few days from Washington.

The bank is being operated under limited banking rules that permit 100 per cent withdrawals of new deposits. Mr. Dolan declared that as yet he has received no word from Secretary Woodin concerning the additional powers given conservators.

Don't take calomel! HERE'S NEW HEALTH FOR YOUR LIVER

Now banish bad breath, pimples, constipation; feel like a million!

That tired, frowny feeling in the morning, that "dark-brown" taste in the mouth—if you would banish them and win back buoyant health, don't expect relief from salts, mineral oil, or candy and chewing-gum laxatives.

For such remedies only move the bowels. While chances are, you're one of the thousands suffering from sluggish liver which does not yield sufficient bile—causing pimples, blemishes, headaches, bad breath and a general run-down feeling.

What you need is something which acts thoroughly but harmlessly upon the liver. And in Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets you will find that "something" which stimulates the bile flow.

A successful substitute for calomel, these famous tablets are compounded of pure vegetable ingredients, and have been praised for years by millions.

To get and keep the bile flowing freely—correcting constipation, skin troubles, and win back that "fine-and-dandy" feeling of youth—go to your druggist for Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets today. 15c, 50c, 60c.

The frog the Tinies left behind cried, "Very shortly you will find the place that we call Midget Land. It's not so far away."

"That old sea horse will take you there. Why, it can travel anywhere. I hope that you'll come back and call on me again some day."

"You bet we will," yelled Scouty. "Gee, you've been as kind as kind can be." And then the sea horse pulled the Tinymites far from the shore.

"We're going to have a dandy ride before we reach the other side," said Windy. "It is hard to wait to find what is in store."

Then Duncy shouted, "Please sit still, so we won't take a sudden spill. This carriage, made of lily pads, might tip and flop us out. I'll drive the sea horse. I know how. Just watch it swing around, right now." Then Coppy said, "You are a clever lad, without a doubt."

The Tinies rode along at ease, and then there came a sudden breeze. It whipped the water up a bit and made some big waves run. At first this scared each Tinymite. The carriage, though, rode on all right, and Windy shortly shouted, "Say, this is a lot of fun."

At last they neared a sandy shore. "We'll soon be on dry land once more," said Scouty. "Get all set to jump when it is safe and sound."

The sea horse knew just how to land. It swung about, up near the sand. In just about a moment all the lads were on the ground.

The carriage disappeared from sight and shortly Coppy Tinymite cried, "Look! I see a great big cave. Gee, what a place to play."

"A rock's in front of it, right now, but we might all get in, somehow," Then Scouty answered, "Sure! Come on! We'll push the rock away."

WEDNESDAY, March 29—(Read Psalm 47:8-11)
The Works of the Lord

This Psalm was written in some ancient time of peace when the singer's land was secure and he ascribed the work of peace to God. There have been wars enough since but they have not been the Lord's work. War is the work of human passion, folly and wickedness. Peace is the work of the Lord. Whatever is peace-loving, peace-pursuing, peace-making is nearest the divine. "Blessed are the peacemakers for they shall be called the sons of God."

It is not easy to be a peacemaker; it needs wisdom, patience, forbearance, endless good-will.
Soldier statesmen make war because they are not wise nor strong nor good enough to make peace.
The sons of God seek peace and pursue it and peace must begin in our own spirits. When all God's children have established the empire of peace in their own minds and wills, war will be ended.
To do this is to do the work of the Lord.

Prayer: Grant unto us, Thy children, Lord of peace of the earth and the obedient stars, to become through our love of peace the sons of God. Forgive us the desolation we have made, forgive us the folly of our armaments and the passion of our uneasy spirits. Make us Thy fellow-workers for righteous peace and arm us only with Thy good-will. In His name Who is the Prince of Peace. Amen.

CLEANING OUT THE LABOR DEPARTMENT

Action seems to be the keynote of the national administration. The new Secretary of Labor has started something. A report from Washington recently noted that Miss Perkins has started the complete re-organization of the department by "firing" fifty-five officers in the immigration department, whose sole duty was snooping upon inoffensive strangers in our country. Early action was made imperative by the fact that of the $200,000 appropriated for that purpose only $12,970 was left on March 15, with three months of the fiscal year remaining.

There has been too much secret service espionage in that department. Since the passing of the unlamented Harry Daugherty as Attorney-General of the United States, the Department of Justice has ceased to be a baiting branch of the government; but under the last Secretary of Labor, it has found a habitation in the Department of Labor. The American people do not relinquish the kind of an espionage with agents provocateur which was the evil of the old Russian autocracy, and which belongs only in lands of tyranny. This ballyhoo of alien racketeering, says Miss Perkins, will receive no encouragement or support from the department while she is at the head of it.

We like that sort of thing. In these days when we are beginning more and more to look upon a police force as an agency for guidance and counsel, as well as restraint, it is not wholesome to establish the policy of force in a department of the national government established to foster child welfare, the social improvement of the workers of the country, and the conciliation of employers and employees. The reason why the immigrant was placed under the care of the Department of Labor was that he might be treated understandingly and sympathetically, and to help him to adjust himself in the midst of his strange environment. If he was to be an object of suspicion and petty annoyance, his place would have been in the Department of Justice, where suspicious characters and criminals are carefully watched.

It looks as if, under the lead of Miss Perkins, the Department of Labor is to return to the performance of those humane and elevating functions for which the Department was created. Miss Perkins is to be commended for her vision and her social sense. We look for great things from her administration.

BORDER POLICE HAVE "JITTERS"

An international episode, likely to reach the cognizance of the League of Nations, is the flying of the German flag which floats over Poland, when certain winds blow. The black-white-red German flag is on a pole two yards from the German border in Upper Silesia.
Polish border police have asked Police Headquarters what to do when a west wind blows
the long flag across the frontier and it touches Polish soil. A solution has not been found.

At this distance it seems that several funny comments could be made about the sensitive police, but not when one thinks about it a bit, and the imagination sets to work. The episode epitomizes the nervous condition along thousands of miles of European national boundary lines. People along the border all have the "jitters" and we know around here what that condition is. A parallel to the episode can be drawn in domestic relations. When a couple has been antipathetic, a trivial incident may start a quarrel which separates them entirely.

In the Honorable Harold Nicholson's book
"Public Faces," which is a story of diplomacy, an international furor was created when the wife of the secretary for foreign affairs repeatedly offered him a third cup of coffee. He left the breakfast room precipitately, telling his wife pointedly that he wanted to be alone. The German and French and Russian embassies, getting the information that he had taken a plane and gone off somewhere, were greatly excited.

A few inches of this flag flying over Poland gives the Polish border police the "jitters".
One can judge pretty well from this what is the nervous tension in that section.

CHAIRMAN POMERENE OUT

The petition of those seeking aid from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for help for the damages done by the earthquake was addressed to Atlee Pomerene. Mr. Pomerene is no longer Chairman of that corporation. His was a recess appointment, and though he was a Democrat, the Democrats in the Senate were opposed to his confirmation. As a result he was automatically retired when the last Congress died.

Mr. Pomerene now finds himself falling between stools. A Democrat in politics, for two terms a Democratic Senator from Ohio, he was twice defeated for that office. President Coolidge appointed him as counsel, with Owen Roberts now on the Supreme bench, in the oil scandal cases. When that job was finished, President Hoover appointed him as chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.
There were prominent Democrats who felt that Mr. Pomerene was trying to get things coming and going, and they concluded to put an end to it. Now Mr. Pomerene is out, and will probably get no recognition from this administration.

We cannot shed any tears over Mr. Pomerene's retirement. Naturally a reactionary, opposed to almost everything for which the new administration stands, we cannot see that he has any place within the Democratic ranks. Of course, a man has a right to his opinions and his principles, but we are certain that Mr.
Pomerene has no complaint against his party in view of recent service and conservative attitudes. He has been a very much over-rated man, as every one who has heard him cannot be slow in finding out; and his administration
of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation funds, as revealed in a recent article in Harpers' Magazine by John T. Flynn, showed that he was not un mindful of his obligations to those who had placed him at the head of that organization. It is certain that there will be a great change in the conduct of that Corporation under the new administration.

MR. SHAW IN FORCED LANDING

George Bernard Shaw was forced to see a close up of a bit more of the United States than San Simeon ranch, and the route to and from there, when his plane made a necessary landing at Malibu Beach. Even at that he stuck to the region of the earthly stars.

Recalling Irving

Neither in the United States nor in England is the opportunity to mark with some ceremony, on April 3, the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of Washington Irving likely to be overlooked. For in both countries Irving's talent was widely acclaimed and his character and manner loved and admired.

Washington Irving was perhaps the first American author to win enthusiastic recognition abroad.
Sir Walter Scott often remarked his appreciation of Irving's works, and Dickens later did likewise.

"The Conquest of Granada" and "The Alhambra," colorful and popular though they were, do not give Washington Irving his claim to permanent fame. Neither do his lengthy histories of Christopher Columbus and George Washington. Rather, it is upon those works in which he preserved droll humorous pictures of typically American scenes that his claim rests with ample security. "Diedrich Knickerbocker's History of New York," for example, in which he pokes quiet fun at the Dutch settlers.
Or classic "Rip Van Winkle," brought to life equally classically, later, by Joseph Jefferson. Or
"The Legend of Sleepy Hollow."

Not as diplomatist, and not as historian, and not upon the Spanish romances does Washington Irving merit the laurel wreath, but as the man who began the real anthology of the literature of the American nation.

Irving did not lack for acclaim on either side of the Atlantic during his lifetime. Perhaps the remarkably ardent interest in his works at that time accounts in some measure for his partial eclipse now. A modern public, reared in a tempo of staccato reading, is not likely to spend much time on, say "Bracebridge Hall," sound and well-contrived story though it may be. An author who reflects too accurately the broadest public taste of his own time runs the risk of being overlooked by succeeding generations.

Washington Irving is in no danger of such a fate, however, because he brought high craftsmanship and talent to his task; because he preserved for all time a fascinating section of Americana.
His was a gentle pen, yet withal indelible. On the occasion of his sesquicentennial his friends on both sides of the Atlantic again will ride with Ichabod Crane; again will play at bowls upon the mountain with Rip and the jolly little men.

'Heirs' to English 'Estates'

San Francisco Chronicle
In almost desperate tones the United States Consul General at London asks his Government to tell the people of the United States that there just are not any rich estates in England waiting for American heirs.

The estate-in-England racket has got on the Consulate General's nerves. No wonder! That office says that for the last fifty years it has been receiving thousands of letters from hopeful Americans about one such mythical estate alone, the so-called Sir Francis Drake estate. The invariable reply of the cautious Consulate General has been that "no record can be found of such an estate."

Now the Consul General wants all Americans told officially that "there are no unsettled estates in England of any size," and that "there is not the slightest possibility of successfully questioning a settlement that was effected a number of years ago."

No one knows how much money has been collected from Americans by grafters pretending to be able to secure for them a share in some English estate lying in chancery. Since this fraud has flourished for many years the sum total must be considerable. The estates are mythical. At the present time perhaps the "Sir Francis Drake" is having the biggest run, but there are plenty of others, all of the same kind.

Some of the alleged estates about which the American Consulate General says it is most frequently consulted are, besides the Sir Francis Drake, those of Hyde, Jennings (Jannings or Jennings), Patrick Rucker, Hedges, Mosher, Weber (Webber), Duke of Argyll, James Dixon, Helen Sheridan Blake, Lawrence-Townley (Lawrence Townsend), Walmsley, Jaques, General Richard Winn, Bonnet (Bonet), Page and Green (or Greene).

That New Deal

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

A DANGEROUS EXAMPLE

The British Parliament has at last adopted restricted debate.

What's this? Must a British M. P.,
Who has millions of words on his chest,
Before he can set them all free
Be gagged and restrained and repressed?
Must even a Lord be explicit and terse
When, discussing the needs of a nation,
He is ready to speak for as long as a week
With never an instant's cessation?

Suppose, in our own U. S. A.,
The gavel should fall with a bang
When a solon had spent half a day
In emitting a wordy harangue.
Pray what would become of the freedom of speech
Guaranteed by our wise Constitution,
And the liberties won at the point of a gun
In the days of the old Revolution?

How could statesmen like Senator Long Feel sure they were earning their salaries
If they did not orate to the throng
That slumbers all day in the galleries?
How could much needed measures be doomed to defeat
If a man with a larynx of leather
Could not rise from his chair and emit hectic air
For twelve weary hours together?

Let Parliament choose its own course
In regard to procedure of state,
But we are too wise to enforce Restriction of endless debate.
Our statesmen shall stand on their feet, if they can,
No hope can there be for the Land of the Free
And talk till their vocal chords sever;
Unless talking continues forever.

By Robert Quillen

Note to new Congressmen: When a landslide carries you that far, it's wise to keep going in the same direction.
Philosophy is just the discovery that weeds make a nice lawn, too, if you keep them trimmed.
If only somebody had made us prove, in 1929, that we intended to use our money wisely when we drew it out.
Let's hope the campaign slogan in 1936 will be: "He kept us out of the red."
Now there's a vaccine protection against cootie-carried typhus, but non, Alas! against the cootie.

HOW NICE TO BE IN AMERICA, SAFE FROM ALL BOMBARDMENTS UNLESS YOUR FRIENDS HAVE COLDS.

There's no hurry about distributing party plums. The boys stay in line so much better while waiting.
Happy thought! If everybody could do without money for three months, the bandits might starve out.
"People of the East used jig-saw puzzles 2000 years B. C."
Yes, but they called it writing.

AMERICANISM: Gladly going to bat for the weak and oppressed the world over; doing nothing to protect suckers here at home.

Still, it's a sign of some progress when nations oppose all wars except the one they're in.
Having to charge gasoline for a few days wasn't the oldtimer's idea of roughening it.
Hitler teaches us that any man may be a great leader if enough people are dumber than he is.

A NEWSPAPER COLUMN REPORTS THAT NEW SHIRTS NOW CONTAIN FEWER PINS,
BUT YOU CAN'T TRUST A MAN WHO BRAGS.

But where was the profit in killing $50,000,000 in retail business to save a dozen $40,000 banks?
It's perfectly clear. The boom caused this; war caused the boom; cussedness caused the war; Adam caused cussedness.
Don't blame Europe. You'd keep a gun beside your bed if next-door neighbors acted crazy.

CORRECT THIS SENTENCE: "IF I CAN GET WELL THIS TIME," SAID THE MAN, "I'LL NEVER AGAIN DO ANYTHING WRONG."

I was coming home from the baker store with a loaf of bread half in a paper bag and half out, and pop caw'd up to me on his way home, saying, "Well young fellow, and how are you?"
Swell, I said, and pop said,
Then you're fortunate, and I envy you.

Why, pop, G, don't you feel good?
I said, and he said, Well, I've felt worse, but not much. That's why I'm home a little earlier than usual, he said.

G, pop, what's a matter? I said, and he said, I'm not exactly certain but I have more than a faint suspicion that I shouldn't eat a double order of liver and onions for lunch.

Liver and onions being pop's favorite thing, and I said, Well then G, pop, the worst is yet to come, because ma ordered liver and onions for supper for a special surprise for you.

You're fooling, you wouldn't tense a sick man, would you? pop said, and I said, No sir, I heard her telephoning to the butcher.

Yee gods, I can't even think of it much less look at it, much less eat it, pop said.

And he opened the front door with his key, ma saying, Welcome home, Willyum, you're early, but you won't be sorry, I've got a special treat for you.

And I've got a special treat for you, and I'll tell you yours first just to prove my heart at least is one organ that's in the right place, pop said.

Proberly meaning his stomach didn't feel as if it was, and ma said, O, what is it, Willyum, O Willyum I'm so excited.

Well, it's not so much, I've engaged a table in the Grotto Grill at the Stitz for dinner tonight, and after that we'll take in the picture at the Mawsoolum, pop said.

Now what's my treat? he said, and ma said, O, well yours is really for tomorrow, Willyum, so don't ask me yet, excuse me while I run back to the kitchen to see Nora for a moment and then we can go.

And she quick went out to the kitchen and pop hurry up telephoned to the Stitz Hotel. The result being that Nora just cooked enough of the liver for me and her.

Orange county lima bean growers were attending a meeting in Oxnard for the purpose of electing four new directors to the California Lima Bean Growers' association. A lima bean pool had been definitely decided upon, with approximately 80 per cent of the growers entering into the plan which was to stabilize prices.

B. A. Crawford, secretary of the Tustin Hills Citrus association, in his annual report offered at a special meeting in Tustin grammar school, disclosed the fact that over a million dollars in actual cash had flowed into Tustin during the past year from the citrus industry. Officers of the association were elected as follows: A. E. Bennett, president; A. M. Robinson and J. A.
McFadden, vice-presidents; B. A.
Crawford, secretary-manager; A.
F. Finley, F. B. Browning, C. J.
Kiatt and Perry Lewis, directors.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

YOUNG AMERICA SPEAKS!

Again and again the cry arises for a youth movement in the United States.

In so far as such a cry rests upon the assumption that youth, by the mere fact that it is young, has a sounder outlook than maturity,
I cannot grow greatly hopeful of the movement for which it pleads.

Youth can be too young for some tasks.
It is manifest that the too tight minded men of later years have resisted the obvious necessity of revising many of our political, social, and economic policies in the light of the changed circumstances of the last quarter century.

But youth as just youth may well be so open minded that, as someone once put it, its mind may be draughty.

What we need just now is a leadership in which there is a proper balancing between the freshness of the youthful approach and the careful and experienced consideration of the ways of mature approach.
We need, in short, a youth movement made up of all Americans who have not lost the freshness and freedom and flexibility of mind we associate with those years before hardening of the intellectual arteries sets in.

Mere age itself should not be a requisite for membership in such a movement.

I know men of twenty-five who should not be admitted to the councils of such a movement and I know men of seventy-five who should.

There has just come from the press a stimulating little book which I hope will obtain a wide reading. It is called "The Voice of Young America." It is written by James H. R. Cromwell. It proposes and discusses thirty-four moves which in the author's judgment, would make for national recovery and stabilization. During the next three days, I want to list these points, not because I agree with all of them, for I do not, but as a sample of the sort of serious wrestling with national problems which we need to have among young Americans.

Quite apart from the soundness or unsoundness of this or that point in the Cromwell program, the refreshing thing is the absence of complete surrender to the traditional programs of either the Republican or Democratic party or of minor parties. This cutting across lots in an effort to get at realities regardless of party label is important.

TROUBLED HOMES

"Won't you please tell me how many times a week a grandmother ought to be allowed to have her grandchild with her?
The child's mother thinks that grandmother's influence is not good for the child and says he can visit her once a week. Now as grandmother lives in the house with us it is hard to keep things smooth."

It usually is. I grandmother is the sort that clings to her motherhood even down to the third and fourth generation. We would better start at the beginning.
Grandmother has no rights in the children of her children. She has privileges but no more. Their own mother must be the beginning and end of things as far as rights go. This shuts grandmother out unless she opens the door with affection and service.

It is not so easy enough for a grandmother to do this. Every-mother, even if she is your own son's wife, loves her children and loves those who wish them well.
If you would win your daughter-in-law's heart love the children. Teach them to love you and to love everybody else who is close to them and there will be no trouble.

My mother-in-law has to live with us. It cannot be helped.
She wants to take charge of the children. She thinks I don't know how to bring them up. When I tell them what to do or not to do she always has something to say about it and I am in a very embarrassing position. She wants to bathe the baby and of course I won't have it and then we have a very unpleasant day. This goes on and on until I'm at my wit's end."

Grandmother would put it differently. She would tell you that her daughter-in-law didn't know how to handle that baby. She grandmother has plenty of experience. She knows. This young mother isn't willing to let her teach her. The baby suffers.
Her son is being estranged from her. She wishes that her son had made a better match, married a woman who was willing to love and respect his mother. She weeps a little over her sad lot.

It is sad enough. It is hard for an old mother to have to live in her son's home, to let another hold the reins of power.
But that is what has to be done
if there is to be peace and happiness in the household.

The house belongs to the daughter-in-law. The responsibility for the children is hers. If grandmother is wise she will retire to her own room and strictly hold to

A LA HARLOW

YOUTH (pointing out beach beauties of neighborhood to newcomer): There! Isn't she a peach? She knocks all the rest of the girls down here silly!

FRIEND: Ha, A real "flatten-'em blonde!"—The Humorist.

A HEAVY ONE

It was approaching midnight and the young man still hovered around the door. The stillness was suddenly shattered by a loud crash upstairs.

"Gracious, dear," said the timid swain, "what could that be?"
"Oh," replied the miss, "that's just papa dropping a hint."—Pele
